Catholics and Contraception Leslie Woodcock Tentler, 2018-09-05 As Americans rethought sex in the twentieth century the Catholic Church's teachings on the divisive issue of contraception in marriage were in many ways central In a fascinating history Leslie Woodcock Tentler traces changing attitudes from the late nineteenth century when religious leaders of every variety were largely united in their opposition to contraception to the 1920s when distillations of Freud and the works of family planning reformers like Margaret Sanger began to reach a popular audience to the Depression years during which even conservative Protestant denominations quietly dropped prohibitions against marital birth control Catholics and Contraception carefully examines the intimate dilemmas of pastoral counseling in matters of sexual conduct Tentler makes it clear that uneasy negotiations were always necessary between clerical and lay authority As the Catholic Church found itself isolated in its strictures against contraception and the object of damaging rhetoric in the public debate over legal birth control support of the Church's teachings on contraception became a mark of Catholic identity for better and for worse Tentler draws on evidence from pastoral literature sermons lay writings private correspondence and interviews with fifty six priests ordained between 1938 and 1968 concluding the recent history of American Catholicism can only be understood by taking birth control into account Popular Magazines and Fiction in Shanghai, 1914-1925 Peijie Mao, 2021-12-02 This book explores the rise of Shanghai based popular magazines produced by the Mandarin Ducks and Butterflies School in early twentieth century China It examines the national gender family and social imaginaries constructed and negotiated through a complex network of relationships between popular writers magazine editors and their intended readers which were represented in various forms of popular narratives including patriotic stories war military stories family narratives domestic fiction utopian writings and industrial business stories The author argues that the national imagination social ideals and the notions of ideal womanhood and the new family were intrinsically linked and integral to the search for cultural identity of the emerging Chinese middle society and an expression of their collective sensibilities experiences and aspirations This book suggests that the cultural imaginaries configured in these magazine stories articulated a shared quest for modernity one that emphasized sentiment quotidian experience the pursuit of the modern family and individual success strengthening of the nation and the reinvention of cultural tradition Popular magazines and fiction therefore became uniquely instrumental in catalyzing the process of Chinese modernity which emerged and developed along the symbiotic interrelations between the private and the public the traditional and the modern and the real and the imaginary Population Sciences, 1978
