New Directions In Celtic Studies:

New Directions in Celtic Studies Amy Hale, Philip Payton, 2000 The primary aim of New Directions in Celtic Studies is to focus on contemporary issues and to promote interdisciplinary approaches within the subject. Written by international scholars and practitioners in fields such as folklore, ethnomusicology, art history, religious studies, tourism and education, the book brings together in one volume a wide range of perspectives. It responds to the recent questioning of the viability of the notion of Celticity and the idea of Celtic Studies as a discipline and points to a renewed vitality in the subject. New Directions in Celtic Studies is divided into four sections: popular culture and representation, commodities and Celtic lifestyles, contemporary Celtic identity and the Celtic diaspora, Celtic praxis. New Directions in Celtic Studies Colin H. Williams, Amy Hale, Philip Payton, 2003

New Directions in Later Medieval Manuscript Studies Derek Pearsall, 2000 Influential scholars from Britain and North America discuss future directions in this rapidly expanding field of manuscript study. The study of manuscripts is one of the most active areas of current research in medieval studies; manuscripts are the basic primary material evidence for literary scholars, historians and art historians alike and there has been an explosion of interest over the past twenty years. Manuscript study has developed enormously: codices are no longer treated as inert witnesses to a culture whose character has already been determined by the modern scholar but are active participants in a process of exploration and discovery. The articles collected here discuss the future of this process and vital questions about manuscript study for tomorrow's explorers. They deal with codicology and book production, with textual criticism, with the material structure of the medieval book, with the relation of manuscripts to literary culture, to social history and to the medieval theatre, and with the importance to manuscript study of the emerging technology of computerised digitisation and hypertext display. The essays provide an end-of-millennium perspective on the most vigorous developments in a rapidly expanding field of study.

New Directions in Local History Since Hoskins Christopher Dyer, Andrew Hopper, Evelyn Lord, 2011-10 Utilizing the techniques developed by renowned local historian W. G. Hoskins in his landmark study published 50 years ago, Local History in England, this book demonstrates how local history has evolved as a discipline over the last half century. Fifteen historians write about a variety of local history subjects that are significant in their own right but which also point to current trends in the field. They show how local historians use their sources systematically, from the nonverbal evidence of buildings to various types of electronic sources. All periods between the middle ages and the early twenty-first century are explored, covering many parts of England from Skye to the Kent coast and discussing topics that include social, economic, religious, legal, intellectual and cultural history.

Mysticism, Myth and Celtic Identity Marion Gibson, Shelley Trower, Garry Tregidga, 2013 Mysticism, Myth and Celtic Identity explores how the mythical and mystical past informs national imaginations Building on notions of invented tradition and myths of the nation it looks at the power of narrative and fiction to shape identity with particular reference to the British and Celtic contexts The authors consider how aspects of the past are reinterpreted or reimagined in a variety of ways to give coherence to desired national groupings or groups aspiring to nationhood and its defence The coverage is unusually broad in its historical sweep dealing with work from prehistory to the contemporary with a particular emphasis on the period from the eighteenth century to the present The subject matter includes notions of ancient deities Druids Celticity the archaeological remains of pagan religions traditional folk tales racial and religious myths and ethnic politics and the different types of returns and hauntings that can recycle these ideas in culture Innovative and interdisciplinary the scholarship in Mysticism Myth and Celtic Identity is mainly literary but also geographical and historical and draws on religious studies politics and the social sciences Thus the collection offers a stimulatingly broad number of new viewpoints on a matter of great topical relevance national identity and the politicization of its myths

Ethnologia Europaea Vol. 42:1 Orvar Löfgren, Regina F. Bendix, 2012-10-29 How did an African elephant reach a North European museum What makes fashion displayed in museums such a hot topic today Two of the articles in this issue of Ethnologia Europaea deal with museum ideologies Liv Emma Thorsen's essay follows the story of a museum elephant What lessons can be drawn from its death transport and exhibition in a postcolonial world Marie Riegels Melchior looks at the intersection of the fashion industry and nation branding as an arena for developing new museums These two articles tie in with Alexandra Schwell's reflections on ideological shifts in Austrian state officials' concept of the nation's place on the political landscape past and present Patrick Laviolette explores metaphors of emplacement to understand regional character through its linguistic idiom Relying on extensive fieldwork Vihra Barova employs classical kinship scholarship to understand present day Bulgarian village ties as they are expressed in the festivities of extended families

Women in a Celtic Church Christina Harrington, 2002-04-11 A history of women in the early Irish church has never before been written despite perennial interest in the early Christianity of Celtic areas and indeed the increasing interest in gender and spirituality generally This book covers the development of women's religious professions in the primitive church in St Patrick's era and the development of large women's monasteries such as Kildare Clonbroney Cloonburren and Killeedy It traces its subject through the heyday of the seventh century through the Viking era and the Culdee reforms to the era of the Europeanization of the twelfth century The place of women and their establishments is considered against the wider Irish background and compared with female religiosity elsewhere in early medieval Europe The author demonstrates that while Ireland was distinct it was still very much part of the wider world of Western Christendom and it must be appreciated as such Grounded in the primary material of the period the book places in the foreground many largely unknown Irish texts in order to bring them to the attention of scholars in related fields Throughout the study the author notes widespread ideas about Celtic women pagan priestesses and Saint Brigit considering how these perceptions came about in light of the texts and

Affective Assemblages and Local Economies Joanie

Willet, 2021-10-18 What becomes visible if we look at peripheral deprived rural regions through the lens of a complex adaptive assemblage Affective Assemblages and Local Economies uses ethnographic research and qualitative interviews with members of the public and some policy makers to examine this question Over a year long project in Cornwall in the South West of the UK and the South West of Virginia USA the book considers what becomes visible if we understand the region through the words of ordinary people rather than planners and policy makers Drawing on the Deleuzian affective assemblage it builds the concept of the Region Assemblage to examine the deep interconnectedness between people objects organisations and the processes that we find in the regions that we observe

Irish Tourism Michael Cronin, Barbara

O'Connor, 2003-08-20 For many years Ireland has been a popular tourist destination and tourism has been one of the most significant social economic and cultural forces in Irish society Irish Tourism Image Culture and Identity engages with major national and international debates on contemporary tourism through cutting edge research The book explores the multifaceted nature of this important phenomenon drawing on current work in sociology cultural studies ethnography and language studies For those who theorise about tourism and those who make practical day to day decisions on tourism policy Irish Tourism will provide invaluable insights into historical and contemporary tourist representations practices and impacts In addressing issues such as the relationship between the local and the global in tourist settings the construction of tourist imagery and products and the development of tourism policy contributors to Irish Tourism offer an innovative and critical analysis of the impact of global tourism on a small country This book will be indispensable reading for students and scholars in Tourism Studies and Irish Studies and will also be essential for students of sociology cultural studies geography languages and anthropology

Social Identities Gary Taylor, Steve Spencer, 2004 Social Identities argues that we have a collection of social selves and that our identities are influenced by such things as class gender sexuality race nationality religious views and by the media
