New Directions In Composition Research:

Methods and Methodology in Composition Research Gesa Kirsch, Patricia A. Sullivan, 1992 In original essays fourteen nationally known scholars examine the practical philosophical and epistemological implications of a variety of research traditions Included are discussions of historical theoretical and feminist scholarship case study and ethnographic research text and conversation analysis and cognitive experimental and descriptive research Issues that cross methodological boundaries such as the nature of collaborative research and writing methodological pluralism the classification and coding of research data and the politics of composition research are also examined Contributors reflect on their own research practices and so reflect the current state of composition research itself New Directions in Composition Research Richard Beach, 1984 New Directions for Research in L2 Writing S. Ransdell, M.-L. Barbier, 2002-04-30 This book describes the current psycholinguistic research being conducted internationally on better understanding second language L2 writing It is based on an experimental research tradition arising from recent progress made in methodology technology and theory in both native and second language writing It is unique in that it is specifically geared to better understanding L2 writing and how it relates to L1 writing research in the psycholinguistic tradition New Directions in Composition Research Richard Beach, Lillian S. Bridwell, 1984-01-01 New Directions in Group Communication Lawrence R. Frey, 2001-12-03 New Directions in Group Communication takes as its mission the setting of the agenda for the study of group communication in the future It does so by presenting work that scholars have not previously explored in the current small group communication literature Part I focuses on new theoretical and conceptual directions both presenting new views and extending current positions Part II examines new research methodologies while Part III looks at antecedent factors affecting group communication Parts IV and V of the text provide insight into both group communication process and practices Part VI covers different group communication contexts including communication patterns in top management teams Research on Composition Peter Smagorinsky, 2006 Covering the period between 1984 and 2003 this authoritative sequel picks up where the earlier volumes Braddock et al 1963 and Hillocks 1986 now classics in the field left off It features a broader focus that goes beyond the classroom teaching of writing to include teacher research second language writing rhetoric home and community literacy workplace literacy and histories of writing Each chapter is written by an expert in the area reviewed and covers both conventional written composition and multimodal forms of composition including drawing digital forms and other relevant media Research on Composition is an invaluable road map of composition research for the next decade and required reading for anyone teaching or writing about composition today Concepts in Composition Irene L. Clark, 2011-09 A textbook for composition pedagogy courses It focuses on scholarship in rhetoric and composition that has influenced classroom teaching in order to foster reflection on how theory impacts practice Theorizing Composition Mary Kennedy, 1998-06-25 The last 25 years have witnessed extraordinary growth in the academic specialization variously described as composition studies or rhetoric and composition. What was noticeable about the field in its infancy was a preoccupation with practice, a lack of emphasis on theory, and an exclusive reliance on the writing process. As its disciplinary status has grown, the field has become far more theoretical. Composition studies has expanded its focus, reconceptualized the writing process, and embraced a wide range of critical perspectives. The result of this change is that terms such as poststructuralism, social construction, gender, and genre, which were largely unknown in 1965, now dominate discussion. This reference book is a guide to the multiplicity of theories that have emerged to form the disciplinary foundation of composition studies. The volume consists of 66 entries, each of which is written by an expert contributor and focuses on a particular theory or group of theories. While the entries show how various individuals have contributed to theoretical movements, very few concentrate on the work of a single theorist. Each entry first provides a critical summary of a particular theory or group of theories, including key elements, basic concepts, and claims, and information about seminal or particularly influential works. It then reviews the theory's critical reception in composition studies and discusses its significance in the field. The bibliography at the end of each entry lists primary texts and major scholarship related to the theory and provides additional suggestions for further reading. The volume closes with a selected bibliography of important works.

Contemporary Composition Studies Edith Babin, Kimberly Harrison, 1999-12-30. Composition studies is a rapidly growing and constantly changing field. At present, however, graduate students new to the field and writing teachers who want to make new connections between theory and practice have little choice of current reference works that define key terms in composition studies and provide information about the scholars and researchers who have shaped and are shaping the discipline. This book supplies this information in an easily accessible format and places both scholars and terms in the context of the field's development. Included are alphabetically arranged entries for 108 individuals who have developed the field and 128 terms central to the discipline. The first part of the book provides entries for leaders in composition studies. Each entry identifies the areas in which the scholar has contributed most influentially to the field and provides both a chronological overview of the person's contributions and a bibliography of representative works. The second part includes entries for terms that are problematic both for newcomers and for those already familiar with the discipline. The entries for the terms show how the disciplinary context has shaped the ways in which they have been used. The entries also indicate how established thinkers in composition studies and other disciplines have explained or defined the terms, provide examples of the terms in context, and list scholars often associated with them. An appendix includes entries for scholars from other disciplines who have contributed to the field.

Situating Composition Ede, Lisa, 2004. Responding to a growing pedagogical paralysis in debates over the nature and status of composition studies as an academic discipline, Lisa Ede offers a provocative inquiry into the politics of composition's place in the academy. The result is a timely and engaging reflection on the rhetoric, ideology, and ethics of scholarship and instruction in composition studies today.
