New Grove Dictionary Of Music Musician Volume 24

Gianmario Borio,Angela Carone

New Grove Dictionary Of Music Musician Volume 24:

Singing Dante: The Literary Origins of Cinquecento Monody Elena Abramov-van Rijk, 2017-07-05 This book takes its departure from an experiment presented by Vincenzo Galilei before his colleagues in the Florentine Camerata in about 1580. This event namely the first demonstration of the stile recitativo is known from a single later source a letter written in 1634 by Pietro dei Bardi son of the founder of the Camerata. In the complete absence of any further information Bardi's report has remained a curiosity in the history of music and it has seemed impossible to determine the true nature and significance of Galilei's presentation. That unfortunately still remains true for the music which is lost. Yet we know a crucial fact about this experiment: the poetic text chosen by Galilei it was an excerpt from the Divine Comedy by Dante Alighieri the Lament of Count Ugolino. Starting from this information the author examines the problem from another angle. Investigation of the perception of Dante's poetry in the sixteenth century as well as a deeper enquiry into cinquecento poetic theories and especially phonetics leads to a reconstruction of Galilei's motives for choosing this text and sheds light on some of the features of his experiment.

The Musical Life of Nineteenth-Century Belfast Roy Johnston, 2017-07-05 Roy Johnston and Declan Plummer provide a refreshing portrait of Belfast in the nineteenth century. Before his death Roy Johnston had written a full draft based on an impressive array of contemporary sources with deep and detailed attention especially to contemporary newspapers. With the deft and sensitive contribution of Declan Plummer the finished book offers a telling view of Belfast's thriving musical life. Largely without the participation and example of local aristocracy nobility and gentry Belfast's musical society was formed largely by the townspeople themselves in the eighteenth century and by several instrumental and choral societies in the nineteenth century. As the town grew in size and developed an industrial character its townspeople identified increasingly with the large industrial towns and cities of the British mainland. Efforts to place themselves on the principal touring circuit of the great nineteenth century concert artists led them to build a concert hall not in emulation of Dublin but of the British industrial towns. Belfast audiences had experienced English opera in the eighteenth century and in due course in the nineteenth century they found themselves receiving the touring opera companies in theatres newly built to accommodate them. Through an energetic groundwork revision of contemporary sources Johnston and Plummer reveal a picture of sustained vitality and development that justifies Belfast's prominent place the history of nineteenth century musical culture in Ireland and more broadly in the British Isles.

Musical Improvisation and Open Forms in the Age of Beethoven Gianmario Borio, Angela Carone, 2017-12-14 Improvisation was a crucial aspect of musical life in Europe from the late eighteenth century through to the middle of the nineteenth representing a central moment in both public occasions and the private lives of many artists Composers dedicated themselves to this practice at length while formulating the musical ideas later found at the core of their published works improvisation was thus closely linked to composition itself The full extent of this relation can be inferred from both private documents and reviews of concerts featuring improvisations while these texts also inform us that composers quite often performed in public as both improvisers and interpreters of pieces written by themselves or others Improvisations presented in concert were distinguished by a remarkable degree of structural organisation and complexity demonstrating performers consolidated abilities in composition as well as their familiarity with the rules for improvising outlined by theoreticians
