Radio, Television and Modern Life Paddy Scannell, 1996-12-23 Written by one of the foremost and widely respected writers in the field this volume sheds new light on the forms and premises of the communicative experience In doing so it challenges the theoretical positions of marxist and political economy of media analysts who focus largely on the structure of economic and social power within the media Instead Scannell explores the structuring of engagement of the viewer listener with the broadcaster by analysing the communicative intentions of the broadcaster and the understanding by the audience of those intentions This powerful and accessible book makes an important contribution to media studies in showing students how the history of the media can be enriched by communications theory

Media Talk: Conversation Analysis and the Study of Broadcasting Ian Hutchby, 2005-12-16 Media Talk provides an accessible introduction to the analysis of the spoken word by examining linguistic and discursive aspects of broadcast media Beginning with the observation that talk is central to all genres of radio and television Ian Hutchby examines the forms of speech used by broadcasters as their primary means of communicating with audiences He looks at a range of media forms and genres including televised audience debates confrontational TV talk shows such as Oprah Winfrey and Ricki Lake open line talk radio shows advice giving broadcasts news interviews and political panel discussions Hutchby argues that the study of talk provides insights into the very nature of mass communication and invites the reader into further consideration of a range of important issues such as the relationship between broadcasters and audiences and the public role of media output The book not only describes the role of media talk but also provides detailed examples of analytical tools It is key reading for students on courses in language and the media media discourse communication and cultural studies

Challenges of Christian Communication and Broadcasting Dominic Emmanuel, 2016-07-27 The book attempts to establish historically why it became important for Christian Churches in general and the Catholic Church in particular to reconsider their communicative practices It shows how the Churches tried to change their mode of monological communication to adopt a dialogical one including dialogue with non Christian religions The distinctive character of the book lies in showing that such parallel changes in communicative practices were witnessed in philosophical thinking as well as in the field of secular and religious broadcasting

Sound Media Lars

Nyre, 2009-06-02 Sound Media considers how music recording radio broadcasting and muzak influence people's daily lives and introduces the many and varied creative techniques that have developed in music and journalism throughout the twentieth century. Lars Nyre starts with the contemporary cultures of sound media and works back to the archaic soundscapes of the 1870s. The first part of the book devotes five chapters to contemporary digital media and presents the internet, the personal computer, digital radio, news and talk and various types of loudspeaker media, muzak, DJ-ing, clubbing and PA systems. The second part examines the historical accumulation of techniques and sounds in sound media and presents multitrack music in the 1960s, the golden age of radio in the 1950s and back to the 1930s, microphone recording of music in the 1930s, the experimental phase of wireless radio in the 1910s and 1900s and the invention of the gramophone and phonograph in the late nineteenth century. Sound Media includes a soundtrack on downloadable resources with thirty-six examples from broadcasting and music recording in Europe and the USA from Edith Piaf to Sarah Cox and is richly illustrated with figures, timelines and technical drawings.

The Aesthetics of Television Gunhild Agger, Jens F. Jensen, 2001 The concept of aesthetics is traditionally connected with art and high culture whereas mass media is connected with a lack of cultural quality, originality and authenticity. This anthology describes and analyzes television as an aesthetic phenomenon.

Satellite Television and Everyday Life Shaun Moores, 1996 What are the meanings of satellite television for its audiences? How is the technology used and made sense of in different households and neighbourhood contexts? What are the consequences of its arrival for constructions of personal and collective identity?

The Playful Audience Tony Wilson, 2004 This text follows a series of experiential and theoretical routes toward understanding audience use of television and the Internet. The essence of play is explored with a focus across cultures, predominantly the East's consumption of television and the Internet produced and presented by the West. Part One discusses recent work on television audiences considering local viewers' responses to globally circulating programmes. Part Two discusses the position of talk shows as a media format central not only to understanding television's development into narrowcasting but also the theoretical study of the Internet. The concluding hypertext shows how media and their audience users are converging in practice and theory.

Broadcast Talk Paddy Scannell, 1991-09-06 This volume demonstrates the relevance of talk and its analysis to understanding the communicative process in television and radio. As the contributors to this book illustrate, the study of talk on radio and television addresses central questions of how institutional authority and power are maintained, how the media construct audiences and how audiences make sense of programme output. In terms of styles of discourse, the book covers the range of broadcast talk, both formal and informal. Theoretically, it draws on ideas from discourse and conversational analysis, pragmatics and critical linguistics and on the ideas of Goffman, Garfinkel and Habermas.

The End of Television? Elihu Katz, Paddy Scannell, 2009-09-17 Is television dead The classic television era of the 1950s and 1960s characterized by limited choices of programs broadcast on over the air channels to families as if they were seated around a hearth and to a nation as if gathered around a campfire has indeed ended Throughout the drastic evolution of this media thousands of studies have examined the short term effects of television such as the evaluation of persuasion campaigns Yet there is scant research on the overreaching sociological impacts of television and its centrality to Western culture over the past 60 years This compelling volume of The ANNALS is the first collection of rigorous articles devoted to studying ways in which television has impacted our values ideologies institutions social structure and culture Derek Jarman Tony Peake, 2000 Biography of the outrageous and controversial filmmaker painter and gardener
