Wheelwright, Berard Haile, 1949      Climate Crisis, Social Responses and Sustainability Uttam Mukhopadhyay, Subhasis Bhattacharya, Pradip Chouhan, Suman Paul, Indrajit Roy Chowdhury, Uday Chatterjee, 2024-05-28 This proposed book aims to present an analysis of several crisis issues induced by global climate changes and implications at the micro level particularly from the perspective of ground based study Climate crisis leads to several socio ecological issues which need to discuss with some empirical case studies from the contextual global evidences Climatic crisis generates several social responses which are associated with mitigating issues in addition to sustainable development goals Under these circumstances several loopholes interlinked with climatic crisis need to expose in the present day context This book argues that it is important to understand the issues from multiple dimensions It identifies some important dimensions to discuss in the process Themes we purpose to cover are several field based studies are included for which micro level field based data would incorporate to understand current crisis induced by climate change thus exposing the vulnerabilities of the communities which would be incorporated in different chapters with adequate representation of qualitative methods modelling based geospatial approach. Therefore some secondary data based studies have also been included to provide a broader picture. Additionally this book aims to provide an interdisciplinary understanding of the issues mainly from the lenses of Geography, Economics and Sociology as well as Environmental Studies too. Pedley, Mike Rogerson, 2010. Our understanding of calcium carbonate precipitation within freshwater carbonate systems is being revolutionized by new quantitative approaches at both field and laboratory scale. These systems cover a diverse range of topical research areas including tufas, speleothems, stromatolites and microbial processes. Progress by various international research groups has been impressive with major contributions to such areas as climate change, absolute dating, carbon sequestration and biofilm construction and precipitation. A diverse sample of interrelated research is presented that provides a tantalizing glimpse of the interplay between microbial geochemical and physical processes that control the development of tufas and speleothems. This volume will provide a cross disciplinary platform that will stimulate further exchanges about new concepts, methodologies and interpretations associated with freshwater carbonates. In particular it will help reinforce the importance of cross discipline research the driving force behind the new field of Geobiology.

Middlemarsh: The Hopkins River, Kindred Wetlands and Remarkable People Rod Giblett, 2023-04-12. One book leads to another, one book grows out of another, one book flows out of others. Flowing is a fitting figure for a book about a river, creeks, wetlands and water. The present volume grew out of a brief discussion of two paintings of wetlands in mid western Victoria by the nineteenth century colonial landscape painter Eugene von Guérard. This discussion was part of a chapter on wetlands in Australian painting and photography (Giblett 2020a). It was included in John Ryan's and Li Chen's edited collection Australian Wetland Cultures (Ryan and Chen eds 2020). I also contributed a chapter to this volume on Aboriginal wetland cultures, their sacred water beings and their refraction in Rainbow Serpent anthropology and Rainbow Spirit theology (Giblett 2020e). I take up and develop this discussion in the present volume in relation to particular Aboriginal peoples and places in mid western Victoria, their practices of wetland cultures and their stories about and images of them, including the Rainbow Serpent.
