The Lover's Progress David Solway, Marion Wagschal, 2001 Between 1733 and 1735 William Hogarth produced a series of paintings and engravings under the title of A Rake's Progress which became perhaps his best known and most admired work In this sequence he told a story of a young parvenu who having inherited a fortune resolves to emulate the stereotypical profligate and arranges his life according to the standard formula When the dust settles we are left with a cautionary tale curiously neutralized to some extent by an extraordinary profusion of choreographic detail and an astonishing technical virtuosity compelling delight and approval or possibly resistance in the aesthetic rather than the moral dimension Motivated by Hogarth's example David Solway tells the story of a representative figure a lover of our own anarchic era which is in some ways very similar to the dissolute and ostentatious period the painter anatomized Solway has equipped the lover with a sketchy CV he is an inveterate traveller or perhaps cruiser is a better word and diarist with an introspective bent but he is also a confirmed voluptuary prone to distraction and not without a streak of coarseness in his nature Illustrations detailing critical moments in the lover's career have been contributed by renowned
