A Grain of Faith Allan Hepburn, 2018-11-15

During and after the Second World War there was a concerted thinking about religion in Britain Not only were leading international thinkers of the day theologians Ronald Niebuhr Paul Tillich Jacques Maritain but leading writers contributed to discussions about religion Graham Greene Muriel Spark and Barbara Pym incorporated miracles evil and church going into their novels while Louis MacNeice T S Eliot and C S Lewis gave radio broadcasts about the role of Christianity in contemporary society Certainly the war revived interest in aspects of Christian life Salvation and redemption were on many people s minds The Ministry of Information used images of bombed churches to stoke patriotic fervour and King George VI led a series of Days of National Prayer that coincided with crucial events in the Allied campaign After the war and throughout the 1950s approximately 1.4 million Britons converted to Roman Catholicism as a way of expressing their spiritual ambitions and solidarity with humanity on a world wide scale Religion provided one way for writers to answer the question what is man It also afforded ways to think about social obligation and ethical engagement Moreover the mid century turn to religion offered ways to articulate statehood not from the perspective of nationhood and politics but from the perspective of moral action and social improvement Instead of being a retreat into seclusion and solitude the mid century turn to religion is a call to responsibility
