THE great demand for this paper, has occasioned many good customers being disappointed, for which the publisher is very sorry: He will, in future, endeavor to prevent any thing of the like kind happening, so long as he may have the honor of being an attendant on the public.

The gloomy prospect of public affairs, at present, in this distressed capital, has inspired few pleasing Demands upon him, with a great reluctance he informs his employers, he can by no means answer without their kind assistance : He is loath to trouble them with a "dissolving" intervention, but his affairs make it necessary : His employers in the country towns, he says, will take proper notice of it, and consider there is no possibility, (especially for a young beginner) in carrying on business without regular payments.

A friend of this kind, it is well known is attended with great expense, and he begs leave to mention, that the MASSACHUSETTS SPY is a third larger than any News-Paper published in this province, and extensive as much News, as many Political Essays, as any in America: and is the cheapest in the place.
