The Shapwick Project, Somerset Christopher Gerrard, 2017-10-24 This book provides an introduction to the Shapwick Project s objectives geographical background and previous work in the Somerset It deals with excavations in the outlying parish and focuses on work in the village at Shapwick House

Between Peak and Plain: Excavations on a Multiperiod Site at Mellor, Stockport, 1998-2009 Peter Arrowsmith, 2025-03-20 This book details 12 seasons of excavations at Mellor Stockport revealing a multiperiod site from the Mesolithic to post medieval periods Key finds include Iron Age enclosures medieval hall remains Mesolithic lithics and Romano British artefacts all contextualized within the wider region

Early Medieval Monetary History Martin Allen, 2016-12-05 Mark Blackburn was one of the leading scholars of the numismatics and monetary history of the British Isles and Scandinavia during the early medieval period He published more than 200 books and articles on the subject and was instrumental in building bridges between numismatics and associated disciplines in fostering international communication and cooperation and in establishing initiatives to record new coin finds This memorial volume of essays commemorates Mark Blackburn's considerable achievement and impact on the field builds on his research and evaluates a vibrant period in the study of early medieval monetary history. Containing a broad range of high quality research from both established figures and younger scholars the essays in this volume maintain a tight focus on Europe in the early Middle Ages 6th-12th centuries reflecting Mark's primary research interests. In geographical terms the scope of the volume stretches from Spain to the Baltic with a concentration of papers on the British Isles. As well as a fitting tribute to remarkable scholar the essays in this collection constitute a major body of research which will be of long term value to anyone with an interest in the history of early medieval Europe.

The Legionary Fortress at Wroxeter Graham Webster, 2014-06-30 The Roman legionary fortress at Wroxeter Viroconium Cornoviorum was built on a strategic crossing point on the River Severn. Though the site of the Roman town had long been known through the presence of upstanding ruins the major excavations reported here have shown how the town plan was dominated by the underlying fortress. This fortress had been established by Legio XIV c AD 60 and had then been partially rebuilt c AD 66 when the legion was replaced by Legio XX. The fortress was downgraded in the late 70s to become a depot for stores before final abandonment c AD 90. The excavations produced extensive evidence for the laying out and construction of the legionary earth and timber defences and of an area within the fortress to the north of the via praetoria where mess halls, barrack blocks and a storehouse were found as well as considerable quantities of coins, metalwork, pottery and glass.

Roman Britain Timothy W. Potter, Catherine Johns, 1992-01-01 Pieces together archaeological evidence with fragmentary writings of Caesar, Tacitus and others to give a picture of Roman Britain.

Later Prehistoric Settlement in Cornwall and the Isles of Scilly: Evidence from Five Excavations Andy M Jones, Graeme Kirkham, 2021-10-07 Later prehistoric settlement in Cornwall and the Isles of Scilly reports on the excavation between 1996 and 2014 of five later prehistoric and Roman period settlements. All the sites were multi-phased revealing similar and contrasting occupational patterns stretching from the Bronze Age into the Iron Age and beyond.

The Emperor in the Byzantine World Shaun Tougher, 2019-03-15 The subject of the emperor in the Byzantine world may seem likely to be a well studied topic but there is no book devoted to the emperor in general covering the span of the Byzantine empire. Of course there are studies on individual emperors, dynasties and aspects of the imperial office role but there remains no equivalent to Fergus Millar's The Emperor in the Roman World from which the proposed volume takes inspiration for its title and scope. The oddity of a lack of a general study of the Byzantine emperor is compounded by the fact that a series of books devoted to Byzantine empresses was published in the late twentieth and early twenty-first centuries. Thus it is appropriate to turn the spotlight on the emperor. Themes covered by the contributions include questions of dynasty and imperial families, the imperial court and the emperor's men, imperial duties and the emperor as ruler, imperial literature, the emperor as subject and author and the material emperor including imperial images and spaces. The volume fills a need in the field and the market and also brings new and cutting edge approaches to the study of the Byzantine emperor. Although the volume cannot hope to be a comprehensive treatment of the emperor in the Byzantine world it aims to cover a broad chronological and thematic span and to play a vital part in setting the agenda for future work The subject of the Byzantine emperor has also an obvious relevance for historians working on rulership in other cultures and periods

A Medieval Manor House Rediscovered Simon Flaherty, Phil Andrews, Matt Leivers, 2016-12-31 Excavations in advance of housing development at Longforth Farm Wellington revealed limited evidence for late prehistoric settlement but the principal discovery was the remains of a previously unknown high status medieval building complex This is thought to have been a manor house and though heavily robbed key elements identified include a hall solar with garderobe and service wing A forecourt lay to the north and a service yard with at least one ancillary building and a possible detached kitchen to the south To the east was a complex of pits enclosure and field ditches and a pond ere was a restricted range and number of medieval finds but together these suggest that occupation spanned the late 11th or 12th century to probably the 14th century There was a notable group of medieval floor tiles and roof furniture but documentary research has failed to identify the owners and any records relating specifically to this important building One possibility is that it belonged to the Provost of Wells cathedral and was perhaps abandoned in the 14th century when the Bishops may have established their court within the nearby and then relatively new market town of Wellington

Finds from the Frontier Rob Collins, Lindsay Allason-Jones, 2010 Finds from the Frontier includes papers by many of the leading finds specialists working on Roman material culture in Britain today with unparalleled knowledge of Roman sites in both Britain and Europe Book Jacket

Beyond the Medieval Village Stephen Rippon, 2008-11-27 The varied character of Britain s countryside and towns provides communities with a strong sense of local identity One of the most significant features of the southern British landscape is the way that its character differs from region to region with compact villages in the Midlands contrasting with the sprawling hamlets of East Anglia and isolated farmsteads of Devon Even more remarkable is the very English feel of the landscape in southern Pembrokeshire in the far south west of Wales Hoskins described the English landscape as the richest historical record we possess and in this book Stephen Rippon explores the origins of regional variations in landscape character arguing that while some landscapes date back to the centuries either side of the Norman Conquest other areas across southern Britain underwent a profound change around the 8th century AD

Making Sense of an Historic Landscape Stephen Rippon, 2012-07-12 This volume explores how the archaeologist or historian can understand variations in landscapes Making use of a wide range of sources and techniques including archaeological material documentary sources and maps Rippon illustrates how local and regional variations in the historic landscape can be understood

Age of Tyrants Christopher A. Snyder, 2010-11-01 By the waning of Roman rule Britain was called a province fertile with tyrants Christopher Snyder s history of Britain during the two centuries after Rome s withdrawal reveals a hybrid society of Celtic Roman and Christian elements and documents the transition from magisterial to monarchical power An appendix explores the Arthur and Merlin
