The Labyrinth of Technology Willem H. Vanderburg, 2000-12-15 Why does modern technology succeed so brilliantly in some respects and simultaneously fail in others While he was completing a doctoral thesis in mechanical engineering in the late 60s and early 70s Willem Vanderburg became convinced that the environmental crisis and the possible limits to growth would require a fundamental change in the engineering management and regulation of technology In this volume he exposes the limitations of conventional approaches in these fields Modern societies urgently need to rethink the intellectual division of labour in science and technology and the corresponding organization of the university corporation and government in order to get out of a self destructive pattern where problems are first created by some than then dealt with by others making it almost impossible to get to the roots of anything The result is what he calls the labyrinth of technology a growing patchwork of compensations that merely displace and transform problems from one place to another The author s diagnosis suggests the remedy a new preventive strategy that situates technological and economic growth in its human societal and biospheric contexts and calls for a synthesis of methods in engineering management and public policy and of approaches in the social sciences and humanities He also suggests that this same synthesis can be applied in medicine law social work and other professions The Labyrinth of Technology is a unique and invaluable text for students academics and laypersons in all disciplines and speaks to those who are torn between the benefits that modern technology provides and the difficulties it creates in our individual and collective lives

Building for Life Stephen R. Kellert, 2012-09-26 Sustainable design has made great strides in recent years unfortunately it still falls short of fully integrating nature into our built environment Through a groundbreaking new paradigm of restorative environmental design award winning author Stephen R Kellert proposes a new architectural model of sustainability In Building For Life Kellert examines the fundamental interconnectedness of people and nature and how the loss of this connection results in a diminished quality of life This thoughtful new work illustrates how architects and designers can use simple methods to address our innate needs for contact with nature Through the use of natural lighting ventilation and materials as well as more unexpected methodologies the use of metaphor perspective enticement and symbol architects can greatly enhance our daily lives These design techniques foster intellectual development relaxation and physical and emotional well being In the works of architects like Frank Lloyd Wright Eero Saarinen Cesar Pelli Norman Foster and Michael Hopkins Kellert sees the success of these strategies and presents models for moving forward Ultimately Kellert views our fractured relationship with nature as a design problem rather than an unavoidable aspect of modern life and he proposes many practical and creative solutions for cultivating a more rewarding experience of nature in our built environment
