Siege The Story Of Hezekiah And Sennacherib:

Siege Thurman C. Petty, 1980 Siege at the Gates Thurman C. Petty, Thurman C. Petty, Jr., 2007 Hezekiah's father King Ahaz had made Judah a slave to the hated Assyrians. He had transformed the beautiful Temple into a pagan shrine and had even sacrificed his infant son in the fire pit of Milcom. All to prove to the Assyrian king that he gave no allegiance to Yaweh. Then he anointed the young Hezekiah to rule Judah in his stead. O Lord, Hezekiah prayed, make me the best king Judah has ever had. Hezekiah made mistakes. He had tragic failures, yet his life shows the heights and depths we all face, and how God can lead us through both.

Biblical Narrative and Palestine's History Thomas L. Thompson, 2014-09-11 Modern biblical scholarship's commitment to the historical critical method in its efforts to write a history of Israel has created the central and unavoidable problem of writing an objective and critical history of Palestine through the biblical literature with the methods of Biblical Archaeology. Biblical Narrative and Palestine's History brings together key essays on historical method and the archaeology and history of Palestine. The essays employ comparative and formalistic techniques to illuminate the allegorical and mythical in Old Testament narrative traditions from Genesis to Nehemiah. In so doing, the volume presents a detailed review of central and radical changes in both our understanding of biblical traditions and the archaeology and history of Palestine. The study offers an analysis of Biblical narrative as rooted in ancient Near Eastern literature since the Bronze Age.

The Gendered Language of Warfare in the Israelite-Assyrian Encounter Cynthia R. Chapman, 2018-07-17 Recognizing gendered metaphors as literary and ideological tools that biblical and Assyrian authors used in the representation of warfare and its aftermath, this study compares the gendered literary complexes that authors on both sides of the Israelite-Assyrian encounter developed in order to claim victory. The study begins by identifying and tracing historically the presentation of royal masculinity in Assyrian royal texts and reliefs dating from the 9th through 7th centuries BCE. Central to this analysis is the Assyrian representation of warfare as a masculine contest in which the enemy male is discredited as a rival through feminization. The second part of the study focuses on the biblical authors' responses to the Assyrian incursion and demonstrates that the dominant metaphorical complex for recording and remembering Israel and Judah's military encounters with Assyria was that of Jerusalem as a woman. This section therefore traces the evolving canonical biography of Jerusalem the Woman as her life story is told and remembered in relationship to Assyria. In the final section of the book, the contest of royal masculinity described in royal Assyrian texts informs the reading of the redactional history of Judah's memory of Assyria, and the insights gained from the study of a feminized Jerusalem are applied to a rereading of the siege scenes of the Assyrian palace reliefs. Innovative in its use of gendered language as the basis for historical comparison of biblical and Assyrian texts, this book is the first to offer a comprehensive methodology for defining and assessing the impact of gendered language within texts of historically linked cultures. This book also advances the discussion of what has been called inner biblical exegesis by offering gendered metaphors as a lens through which to trace the evolution of Judean social

The History of Antiquity (Complete) Max Duncker,2011-01-01 History knows nothing of her infancy The beginning of the development of the human race lies beyond the sphere of memory and so also do the first steps in that development The early stages of culture whether in nations or individuals are unconscious and unobservant of self they are therefore without the conditions which make remembrance possible The original forms of social life in the family and in the tribe the movement of wandering hunters and shepherds the earliest steps in agriculture could leave behind them neither monuments nor records It is true no gifted or favoured nation which has raised itself above these beginnings to civic life and independent culture has neglected to cast a backward glance upon the history of its past Everywhere the attempt has been made to present the past from the later point of culture Whether the memory reaches but a little way or goes back far into the past it is always enriched by ideas taken from religious conceptions or national pride from reflection or theory Such reconstructions are significant of the nature and character of the people for whom they replace the history of their youth but they have no claim to represent the actual course of their development The case is different when the growing culture of a people is observed by nations already at a higher grade of civilisation The Romans were in a position to leave behind a picture of the youthful German tribes the Byzantines could inform us of the movements of the Slaves modern Europe could observe the tribes of America the nomadic shepherds of Asia and the islanders of the South Sea from a higher and riper point of development The oldest kingdoms of which tradition and monuments preserve any information passed unobserved through the earliest stages of their culture Tradition and the earliest monuments present them already in the possession of a many sided and highly developed civilisation In what way these nations the oldest representatives of the culture of mankind arrived at their possession we can only deduce from such evidence as is before us anterior to tradition and independent of it from the nature of the regions where these civilisations sprung up from the physical character and constitution of the nations which developed them from their languages and their religious ideas The history of antiquity is the description of the forms of culture first attained by the human race If it is impossible to discover the origin of these forms historically and the attempt is made to indicate their preliminary stages so far as the recorded elements allow connected conclusions it becomes the chief object of such a history to recover from the fragments of monuments and tradition the culture of the ancient East and of the Hellenes so closely connected with the East to reconstruct from isolated relics and myths the image of that rich and ample life which filled the East in religion and state in art and industry in research and commerce in political struggles and intense religious devotion long before the time when Solon gave laws to the Athenians and the army of Cyrus trod the shore of the gean Sea Can a Cushite Change His Skin?
