Reuben, 1996-09-15 Based on extensive research at eight universities Harvard Yale Columbia Johns Hopkins Chicago Stanford Michigan and California at Berkeley Reuben examines the aims of university reformers in the context of nineteenth century ideas about truth She argues that these educators tried to apply new scientific standards to moral education but that their modernization efforts ultimately failed Gaither's Dictionary of Scientific Quotations Carl C. Gaither, Alma E. Mendelsohn, P. Weingart, 2013-12-01 not lie in the conceptual distinctions but in the perceived functions of metaphors and whether in the concrete case they are judged positive or negative The ongoing debates reflect these concerns quite clearly namely that metaphors are judged on the basis of supposed dangers they pose and opportunities they offer These are the criteria of evaluation that are obviously dependent on the context in which the transfer of meaning occurs Our fundamental concern is indeed the transfer itself its prospects and its limits Looking at possible functions of metaphors is one approach to understanding and elucidating sentiments about them The papers in this volume illustrate by quite different examples three basic functions of metaphors illustrative heuristic and constitutive These functions represent different degrees of transfer of meaning Metaphors are illustrative when they are used primarily as a literary device to increase the power of conviction of an argument for example Although the difference between the illustrative and the heuristic function of metaphors is not great it does exist metaphors are used for heuristic purposes whenever differences of meaning are employed to open new perspectives and to gain new insights In the case of constitutive metaphors they function to actually replace previous meanings by new ones Sabine Maasen in her paper introduces the distinction between transfer and transformation Catalogue of the educational division of the South Kensington museum Victoria and Albert museum, 1876
