Force For Change John P. Kotter, 2008-06-30 The critics who despair of the coming of imaginative charismatic leaders to replace the so called manipulative caretakers of American corporations don't tell us much about what leadership actually is or for that matter what management is either Now John P Kotter who focused on why we have a leadership crisis in The Leadership Factor shows here with compelling evidence what leadership really means today why it is rarely associated with larger than life charismatics precisely how it is different from management and yet why both good leadership and management are essential for business success especially for complex organizations operating in changing environments Leadership Kotter clearly demonstrates is for the most part not a god like figure transforming subordinates into superhumans but is in fact a process that creates change a process which often involves hundreds or even thousands of little acts of leadership orchestrated by people who have the profound insight to realize this Building on his landmark study of 15 successful general managers Kotter presents detailed accounts of how senior and middle managers in major corporations in close concert with colleagues and subordinates were able to create a leadership process that put into action hundreds of commonsense ideas and procedures that in combination with competent management produced extraordinary results This leadership turned NCR from a loser to a big winner in automated teller machines despite intense competition from IBM The same process at American Express and SAS helped businesses grow dramatically despite the fact that they were mature and commodity like Kotter also shows how leadership turned around operations at P produced huge business successes at PepsiCo ARCO and ConAgra and made the impossible occasionally happen at Digital Thousands of companies today are overmanaged and underled John Kotter concludes not because managers lack charisma but because far too few executives have a clear understanding of what leadership is and what it can accomplish Without such a vision even the most capable people have great difficulty trying to lead effectively and to create the cultures which will help others to lead
