Managing Common Property:

Managing Forests as Common Property J. E. M. Arnold, Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 1998-01-01 The purpose of this study is to bring together available information about the role of common property as a system of governance and its present relevance to forest management and use to review the historical record of common property systems that have disappeared or survived to examine the experience of selected contemporary collective management programmes in different countries and to identify the main factors that appear to determine success or failure at the present time Community Management and Common Property of Coastal Fisheries in Asia and the Pacific Robert S.

out of this research study It also adds to the evidence that landless labourers and marginal farmers in India depend in a major way on common resources for their traditional livelihood activities and domestic uses A significant revelation is the emerging undercurrent of competition between big and small farmers over the use of such resources and the apparent exclusion of social minorities landless and women in their management The discussions on water markets and the unique state specific case studies reflect that necessity and scarcity induce people to organize themselves for creating greater availability of common water resources and sharing the benefits more equitably Mastering property management. A practical guide and training program for HOA and property managers Sergei Dedenev,2024-12-05 This comprehensive guide is a must have for HOAs and property managers The book combines practical tools for managing apartment buildings maximizing profitability and optimizing service fees with a detailed training program for customer service managers Learn to streamline operations boost collections and engage residents effectively Packed with proven strategies and modern tools it s your roadmap to excellence in property management and customer service Participatory Management of Natural Resources Varadarajan Ragupathy,2004 With reference to Pulikanmai and Periyakannanur two villages located in Sivagangai district of Tamil Nadu Conflict Resolution and Mediation in Natural Resource Management in Nepal Krishna Prasad Oli,1998 Land Tenure and Natural Resource Management Keijiro Otsuka, Frank M. Place,2001-08-14 The devastating environmental effects of deforestation and the exploitation of other natural resources in the developing world have been well documented yet their impact on local communities has received far less attention This volume fills this gap by looking at how land degradation and deforestation are being addressed at the local level where households have experienced the reduction of farm size and the decline of natural resources Through a comparison of Asia and Africa Land Tenure and Natural Resource Management examines the evolution of land tenure institutions within diverse cultural natural and policy environments Specific topics include the evolution of customary land tenure the impacts of land tenure policies and common property management The editors conclude that the best strategy for managing land and forest resources lies in promoting the establishment of property rights and investment in the improvement of the natural resource base Topics Include Issues and Theoretical Framework Quantitative Methodology Agroforestry Management in Ghana Agroforestry Management in Sumatra Tree and Cropland Management in Malawi Customary and Private Land Management in Uganda Management of State Land and Privatization in Vietnam Common Property Forest Management in the Hill Region of Nepal Timber Forest Management in Nepal and Japan Toward New Paradigms of Land and Tree Resource Management Environmental and Natural Resource Economics Jonathan M. Harris, Brian Roach,2017-06-26 Environmental issues are of fundamental importance and a broad approach to understanding the relationship of the human economy and the natural world is essential In a rapidly changing policy and scientific context this new edition of Environmental and Natural Resource Economics reflects an updated perspective on modern environmental topics Now in its fourth edition this book includes new material on climate change the cost competitiveness of renewable energy global environmental trends and sustainable economies The text provides a balanced treatment of both standard environmental economics and ecological economics based on the belief that these two approaches are complementary Several chapters focus on the core concepts of environmental economics including the theory of externalities the management of public goods the allocation of resources across time environmental valuation and cost benefit analysis Material on ecological economics includes such topics as macroeconomic scale entropy and green national accounting Topical chapters focus on energy climate change water resources international trade forests fisheries and agriculture with an emphasis on designing effective policies to promote sustainability and a green economy Harris and Roach s premise is that a pluralistic approach is essential to understand the complex nexus between the economy and the environment This perspective combined with its emphasis on real world policies is particularly appealing to both instructors and students This is the ideal text for classes on environmental natural resource and ecological economics The book s companion website is available at http://www.bu.edu/eci/education/materials/textbooks/environmental_and_natural_resource_economics

Institutions, Economic Performance and Sustainable Development Biman C. Prasad, Clement Allan Tisdell, 2006 Fiji has distinct institutional features that make it an ideal case for examining and discussing the consequences of institutional arrangements particularly the nature of property rights for national economic performance development prospects and the state of the environment which in turn reflects a nation s ability to achieve sustainable development Furthermore the nature of institutional arrangements in Fiji can be used to illustrate aspects of both the new and the old institutional economics Apart from the fact that Fiji provides considerable scope for the exploration of institutional economics and its applications Fiji is a comparatively important island nation in the south west Pacific that is an important member of the Pacific Island Forum grouping of 14 island nations The recent development of Fiji has been much influenced by its social history particularly by its institutional structures established or codified during British colonial rule Its present racial composition is largely a product of British colonisation of Indians brought to Fiji by the British to produce sugar cane as a contribution to the economic development of the former British Empire In many respects the type of global imperialism that was well established during the nineteenth century was a forerunner to modern economic globalisation which involves a mixture of free trading blocs and multilateralism The current population mixture of Fiji consisting of about equal numbers of Indian Fijians and Indigenous Fijians has its roots in Fiji s colonial history Furthermore the codified systems of property rights which largely excludes Indian Fijians from the ownership of land was established by the British It has been a major source of ethnic tension and of social and political conflict in Fiji We show that this system of property rights has had important negative consequences for economic growth in Fiji for the economic performance of its industries and for the conservation of its natural resources natural resources which may not be equitable and which also does not appear to be efficient administratively This adds to social and political tension in Fiji

Habitat of Grace Carolyn M.

King, 2002 In 1990 the Worldwatch Institute in Washington estimated that humankind had forty years to make the transition to an environmentally stable society If we have not succeeded by then it concluded environmental deterioration and economic decline are likely to be feeding on each other pulling us into a downward spiral of social disintegration Worldwatch is no millenarian cult but a sober and careful organisation whose annual summaries of world affairs have become the planet's unofficial environmental health reports Its pronouncements are cautiously worded influential and worth attending to even if the timing is hard to predict This book uses the issues raised in these reports to look at biology the environmental crisis and theological response to it all by developing a new theology of creation Based on her scientific background in the biological sciences King brings together biology and theology It covers science religion and environment human nature and develops a theology of creation The author teaches at the University of Waikato in New Zealand

Property Law Alison Clarke, Paul Kohler, 2005-12-01 An innovative examination of the law's treatment of property this student textbook provides an extremely useful and readable account of general property law principles It draws on a wide range of materials on property rights in general and the English property law system in particular looking at all kinds of property not just land It includes the core legal source materials in property law along with excerpts from social science literature legal theory and economics many of which are not easily accessible to law students These materials are accompanied by a critical commentary as well as notes questions and suggestions for further reading It will be of interest to undergraduate property law students and to non law students taking property law modules in courses covering planning environmental law economics and estate management

Water for Agriculture Stephen Merrett, 2003-08-02 World population is set to increase by a third in the next 25 years with no corresponding increase in global rainfall About seventy per cent of the world's abstracted water is used in farming and therefore the economics of irrigation is becoming an increasingly important issue for sustainable development Water for Agriculture provides a thorough

Transfrontier Conservation Areas Jens Andersson, Michel de Garine-Wichatitsky, David Cumming, Vupenyu Dzingirai, Ken Giller, 2017-07-14 The introduction of transfrontier conservation areas (TFCAs) in southern Africa was based on an enchanting promise simultaneously contributing to global biodiversity conservation initiatives regional peace and integration and the sustainable socio-economic development of rural communities Cross border collaboration and eco-tourism became seen as the vehicles of this promise which would enhance regional peace and stability along the way However as these highly political projects take shape conservation and development policymaking progressively shifts from the national to regional and global arenas and the peoples most affected by TFCA formation tend to disappear from view This book focuses on the forgotten people displaced by or living on the edge of protected wildlife areas It moves beyond the grand enchanting promise of conservation and development across frontiers and unfounded notions of TFCAs as integrated social ecological systems Peoples dependency on natural resources the specific combination of crop cultivation livestock keeping and natural resource harvesting activities varies enormously along the conservation frontier as does their reliance on resources on the other side of the conservation boundary Hence the studies in this book move from the dream of eco tourism fuelled development supporting nature conservation and people towards the local realities facing marginalized people living adjacent to protected areas in environments often poorly suited to agriculture Disputing the Floodplains Tobias Haller,2010-07-15 African Floodplains in semi arid areas are important for local livelihoods as they harbor many common pool resources such as fisheries pasture wildlife veldt products water and land for irrigation However in many of these areas resources are under pressure This book is presenting seven case studies from Mali Cameroon Tanzania Zambia and Botswana based on anthropological fieldwork 2002-08 and explores how these common pool resources have been managed in pre colonial colonial and postcolonial times The major focus of the study is how institutional change has contributed to resource management problems and offers a comparative analysis based on the New Institutional approach Jean Ensminger Elinor Ostrom which is combined with a special focus on ideology discourse and narratives while focusing on conflict and power issues With a foreword by Elinor Ostrom This book has received the Environmental Research Award 2011 of the University of Bern Switzerland Managing Public Lands as a Common Property Resource Devendra Prasad Chapagain,1984 Collective Action, Property Rights, and Devolution of Rangeland Management: Selected Examples from Africa and Asia Michael Kirk,2000 Nature and Determinants of Collective Action for Woodlot Management in Northern Ethiopia Berhanu Gebremedhin,International Livestock Research Institute,2002-01-01
