Letters Written by Eminent Persons in the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries: to which are Added, Hearne's Journeys to Reading, and to Whaddon Hall, the Seat of Browne Willis, Esq., and Lives of Eminent Men, by John Aubrey, Esq John Walker, 1813 British Travellers and the Encounter with Britain, 1450-1700 John Cramsie, 2015 Encounters with a multicultural Britain in the Tudor and Stuart periods written with an eye to debates about immigration and ethnicity in today's Britain This book recovers the encounter with a multicultural Britain by British travellers in the Tudor and Stuart periods When William Camden writing in the sixteenth century set out to write the history of Britannia he deliberately took to the roads to discover it first hand and those diverse cultures guided and informed his journeys Here John Cramsie offers original perspectives on Camden's multicultural Britain through the study of British travellers and their narratives We meet characters such as the Tudor traveller John Leland who intended to tell the peoples of England and Wales about themselves chronicle how they came to settle the towns villages valleys and mountaintops they called home record the marks they left in the landscape and celebrate the noble histories and cultures they created Dozens eventually hundreds of Britons shared the same passion to meet their island neighbours and relate their experiences The individuals studied in this book include actual as well as armchair travellers and those who blurred the boundaries between them Their letters diaries journals and histories range from the epic poignant and matter of fact to the exotic preposterous and hateful the sources include actual and imaginative narratives and those which combined both elements Travellers painted Britain with in Leland's words native colours that were rich vibrant and above all complex Their remarkable journeys are the story of how Britons over two centuries met interacted and attempted or not to understand one another Written with an eye to debates about immigration and ethnicity in today's Britain the book emphasizes the long history of making and remaking the island's cultural mosaic The encounter with Britain's native colours has been a burden of history and opportunity for millennia not simply for our own times JOHN CRAMSIE is Associate Professor Department of History Union College NY Religious Space in Reformation England Susan Guinn-Chipman, 2015-10-06 The dissolution of the monasteries in England during the 1530s began a turbulent period of religious restructuring Focusing on the counties of Wiltshire and Cheshire Guinn Chipman looks at the changing nature of religion over the next two centuries The Book of British Topography John Parker Anderson, 1881 The Common Fields of England Eric Kerridge, 1992 Mining and Quarrying in Neolithic Europe Anne Teather, Peter Topping, Jon Baczkowski, 2019-06-30 The social processes involved in acquiring flint and stone in the Neolithic began to be considered over thirty years ago promoting a more dynamic view of past extraction processes Whether by quarrying mining or surface retrieval the geographic source locations of raw materials and their resultant archaeological sites have been approached from different methodological and theoretical perspectives In recent years this has included the exploration of previously undiscovered sites refined radiocarbon dating comparative ethnographic analysis and novel analytical approaches to stone tool manufacture and provenancing The aim of this volume in the Neolithic Studies Group Papers is to explore these new findings on extraction sites and their products How did the acquisition of raw materials fit into other aspects of Neolithic life and social networks How did these activities merge in creating material items that underpinned cosmology status and identity What are the geographic similarities constraints and variables between the various raw materials and how does the practise of stone extraction in the UK relate to wider extractive traditions in northwestern Europe Eight papers address these questions and act as a useful overview of the current state of research on the topic The Amesbury Archer and the Boscombe Bowmen A. P. Fitzpatrick, 2013-11-01 Found a few kilometres from Stonehenge the graves of the Amesbury Archer and the Boscombe Bowmen date to the 24th century BC and are two of the earliest Bell Beaker graves in Britain The Boscombe Bowmen is a collective burial and the Amesbury Archer is a single burial but isotope analyses suggest that both were the graves of incomers to Wessex The objects placed in both graves have strong continental connections and the metalworking tool found in the grave of the Amesbury Archer may explain why his mourners afforded him one of the most well furnished burials yet found in Europe This excavation report contains a series of wide ranging studies and scientific analyses by an array of experts and a discussion of the graves within their British and continental European contexts Geology of the Counties of England and of North and South Wales William Jerome Harrison, 1882
