to say anything which had not been already as well or better said On further reflection however I accepted the invitation with the purpose of attempting to give this great subject a more strictly historical or chronological treatment than it had previously received within the limits of a popular work in our own language also to connect the environment the animal and human life and the art This element of the time in which the various events occurred can only be drawn from a great variety of sources from the simultaneous consideration of the geography climate plants and animals the mental and bodily development of the various races and the industries and arts which reflect the relations between the mind and the environment In more technical terms I have undertaken in these lectures to make a synthesis of the results of geology palaeontology anthropology and archaeology a correlation of environmental and of human events in the European Ice Age Such a synthesis was begun many years ago in the preparation of my Age of Mammals but could not be completed until I had gone over the territory myself Civil protection Mario Moiraghi,2007 DK Eyewitness Travel Guide Peru DK
