

The illustration features a vibrant landscape. At the top left, a large yellow sun with radiating lines is partially obscured by a hill. The sky is a deep purple with a few stylized clouds. The hills are depicted in shades of red and purple, with black outlines and dashed lines. The phrase "ALL AROUND US" is written in yellow, curved letters on two of the hills. Two blue butterflies with orange and black markings are shown in flight. In the foreground, a blue river flows, with two people in a blue canoe. One person is wearing a white shirt and a blue hat, and the other is wearing a white shirt and a blue hat. The author's name, "KIMBERLY ENGWICHT", is written in white capital letters at the bottom of the river.

Kinnison, 2016-05-20 For many congregations change creates discomfort Pastoral leaders are often expected to be experts who manage and control realities beyond their expertise experience and ability That expectation a product of modern approaches to leadership views the pastor as responsible for maintaining the status quo Transforming Pastoral Leadership responds to this context by challenging readers to rediscover key biblical themes around the shepherding metaphor as well as key theological themes steeped in our historical faith narratives Readers are challenged to consider the origins of our dominant leadership practices and to reconsider how Christ's preeminence as the leader of his church requires us to reconstruct leadership practices that are faithful to his preeminence To assist congregations Transforming Pastoral Leadership suggests two processes that might help congregations discern God s missional promptings as they move forward into God s future and experience conflict as opportunities for transformation God Reveals Cynthia Denise Robinson,2017-04-27 Each chapter begins with a scripture followed by a short story and concludes with a powerful message The stories were created to illustrate or teach truth Although they are fictional they could have happened For example Chapter Five Abstruse is about three men a professor a dentist and an anesthesiologist They met while attending a sport training camp The men just happened to have a common interest in climbing hiking and mountaineering They realized that climbing Mount Everest was on each one of their to do list At first when they arrived the men sat motionless watching the ground shift It was like a bunch of ice cubes were continually tumbling down the mountain wall Yet the beauty of the view at the top of the mountain made the earth s troubles seem even more horrifying The Evolution of Immortality Chester Twitchell Stockwell,1887
