McPherson, 2014-03-17 The Anasazi people left behind marvelous structures the ruins of which are preserved at Mesa Verde Chaco Canyon and Canyon de Chelly But what do we know about these people and how do they relate to Native nations living in the Southwest today Archaeologists have long studied the American Southwest but as historian Robert McPherson shows in Viewing the Ancestors their findings may not tell the whole story McPherson maintains that combining archaeology with knowledge derived from the oral traditions of the Navajo Ute Paiute and Hopi peoples yields a more complete history McPherson's approach to oral tradition reveals evidence that contrary to the archaeological consensus that these groups did not coexist the Navajos interacted with their Anasazi neighbors In addition to examining archaeological literature McPherson has studied traditional teachings and interviewed Native people to obtain accounts of their history and of the relations between the Anasazi and Athapaskan ancestors of today's Hopi Pueblo and Navajo peoples Oral history McPherson points out tells why things happened For example archaeological findings indicate that the Hopi are descended from the Anasazi but Hopi oral tradition better explains why the ancient Puebloans may have left the Four Corners region the drought that may have driven the Anasazi away was a symptom of what had gone wrong within the society a point that few archaeologists could derive from what is found in the ground An important text for non Native scholars as well as Native people committed to retaining traditional knowledge Viewing the Ancestors exemplifies collaboration between the sciences and oral traditions rather than a contest between the two A Diné History of Navajoland Klara Kelley, Harris Francis, 2019-10-22 For the first time a sweeping history of the Diné that is foregrounded in oral tradition Authors Klara Kelley and Harris Francis share Diné history from pre Columbian time to the present using ethnographic interviews in which Navajo people reveal their oral histories on key events such as Athapaskan migrations trading and trails Diné clans the Long Walk of 1864 and the struggle to keep their culture alive under colonizers who brought the railroad coal mining trading posts and finally climate change The early chapters based on ceremonial origin stories tell about Diné forebears Next come the histories of Diné clans from late pre Columbian to early post Columbian times and the coming together of the Diné as a sovereign people Later chapters are based on histories of families individuals and communities and tell how the Diné have struggled to keep their bond with the land under settler encroachment relocation loss of land based self sufficiency through the trading post system energy resource extraction and climate change Archaeological and documentary information supplements the oral histories providing a comprehensive investigation of Navajo history and offering new insights into their twentieth century relationships with Hispanic and Anglo settlers For Diné readers the book offers empowering histories and stories of Diné cultural sovereignty In
