Reinventing Community Jane Hiddlestone, 2017-12-02 During recent years critics have increasingly expressed their loss of faith in existing cultural and political collective frameworks drawing attention instead to irreducible singularity and to radical incommensurability between diverse positions or groups Hiddleston analyses and challenges this trend bringing together political theoretical and literary analysis and juxtaposing the works of critical theorists such as Derrida Lyotard and Nancy with literature by writers of North African immigrant origin She presents a critique of those writers who underline the absence of communal identification proposes a new emphasis on relational networks interconnecting diverse cultural groups and argues for a more subtle understanding of the complex interplay of the singular and the collective in contemporary French writing

Nowhere is Perfect John West-Sooby, 2008 Utopian imaginings undoubtedly satisfy a desire for fantasy and escape At the same time however they are generally anchored in the real world whose shortcomings they criticise implicitly or explicitly and for which they purport to offer solutions The creation of perfect imaginary worlds therefore serves as a means of acting on the imperfect present This is a particular feature of French utopian writing whose rich tradition continues to grow inspiring authors from all parts of the Francophone world As the essays in this volume demonstrate the utopian and dystopian imaginings which constitute that tradition find expression through all genres and modes of creation What they have in common though is a dissatisfaction with contemporary society and a determination to explore possibilities for a better life
