Palaeodiet In The Aegean Oxbow Monographs Series 96:

OIKOS Maria Relaki, Jan Driessen, 2020-07-28 This collection of papers explores whether the Levi-Straussian notion of the House is a valid concept in aiding the comprehension of the social structure of Bronze Age Aegean societies The volume succeeds in stressing the advances made in the study of social structure of the Aegean on the basis of material remains

Atlas of terrestrial mammals of the Ionian and Aegean islands Marco Masseti, 2012-10-30 The goal of this book is to foster better knowledge of the mammalian fauna of the Mediterranean islands The atlas presents the current state of knowledge of the past and present distribution of the non flying terrestrial mammals of the Ionian and Aegean islands It provides a distribution map for each species with extensive references and a description of all the mammalian taxa The book also focuses on the important role of human beings in the redefinition of the insular ecological equilibrium as well as on the environmental impact of biological invasions The protection and study of this fauna can provide an opportunity for testing a range of different evolutionary theories

Paleonutrition Mark Q. Sutton, Kristin D. Sobolik, Jill K. Gardner, 2010-04-15 Paleonutrition is the analysis of prehistoric human diets and the interpretation of dietary intake in relation to health and nutrition As a field of study it addresses prehistoric diets in order to determine the biological and cultural implications for individuals as well as for entire populations placing archaeological interpretations into an anthropological context Throughout history and long before written records human culture has been constantly in flux The study of paleonutrition provides valuable insights into shifts and changes in human history whatever their causes This is the most comprehensive and up to date book on the topic Intended for students and professionals it describes the nature of paleonutrition studies reviews the history of paleonutrition research discusses methodological issues in the reconstruction of prehistoric diets presents theoretical frameworks frequently used in paleonutrition research and showcases examples in which paleonutritional analyses have been successfully conducted on prehistoric individuals groups and populations It offers an integrative approach to understanding state of the art anthropological dietary health and nutritional assessments The most recent and innovative methods used to reconstruct prehistoric diets are discussed along with the major ways in which paleonutrition data are recovered analyzed and interpreted Paleonutrition includes five contemporary case studies that provide useful models of how to conduct paleonutrition research Topics range from ancient diets in medieval Nubia to children's health in the prehistoric American Southwest to honey use by an ethnographic group of East African foragers As well as providing interesting examples of applying paleonutrition techniques these case studies illustrate the mutually beneficial linkages between ethnography and archaeology

Balkan Dialogues Maja Gori, Maria Ivanova, 2017-02-17 Spatial variation and patterning in the distribution of artefacts are topics of fundamental significance in Balkan archaeology For decades archaeologists have classified spatial clusters of artefacts into discrete cultures which have been conventionally treated as bound entities and equated with past social or ethnic groups This timely volume fulfils the need for an up to date and theoretically informed dialogue on group identity in Balkan prehistory Thirteen case studies covering the beginning of the Neolithic to the Middle Bronze Age and written by archaeologists conducting fieldwork in the region as well as by ethnologists with a research focus on material culture and identity provide a robust foundation for exploring these issues Bringing together the latest research with a particular intentional focus on the central and western Balkans this collection offers original perspectives on Balkan prehistory with relevance to the neighbouring regions of Eastern and Central Europe the Mediterranean and Anatolia Balkan Dialogues challenges long established interpretations in the field and provides a new contextualised reading of the archaeological record of this region Cooking Up the Past Christopher Mee, Josette Renard (Prof.), 2007 This volume focuses on the ways in which the production and consumption of food developed in the Aegean region in the Neolithic and Early Bronze Age to see how this was linked to the appearance of more complex forms of social organisation Sites from Macedonia in the north of Greece down to Crete are discussed and chronologically the papers cover not only the Neolithic and Early Bronze Age but extend into the Middle and Late Bronze Age and Classical period as well The evidence from human remains animal and fish bones cultivated and wild plants hearths and ovens ceramics and literary texts is interpreted through a range of techniques such as residue and stable isotope analysis A number of key themes emerge for example the changes in the types of food that were produced around the time of the Final Neolithic Early Bronze Age transition which is seen as a particularly critical period the ways in which foodstuffs were stored and cooked the significance of culinary innovations and the social role of consumption Archaeology Kevin Greene, 2002 A substantially revised and expanded edition of one of the most widely used and respected general introductions to the field of archaeology

Technique and Application in Dental Anthropology Joel D. Irish, Greg C. Nelson, 2008-02-07 Bringing together a variety of accomplished dental researchers this book covers a range of topics germane to the study of human and other primate teeth The chapters encompass work on individuals to samples ranging from prehistoric to modern times The focus throughout the book is the methodology required for the study of modern dental anthropology comprising the scientific methods in use today ranging from simple observation to advanced computer based analyses which can be utilized by the reader in their own dental research Originating from the 20th anniversary meeting of the Dental Anthropology Association this is a valuable reference source for graduate students academic researchers and professionals in the social and life sciences as well as clinicians

Proceedings of the 4th Symposium of the Hellenic Society for Archaeometry Hellēnikē Archaïometrikē Hetaireia. Symposium, 2008 This large volume contains 86 papers selected from papers given at the 2003 conference Papers range from the broadly theoretical to the discussion of specific techniques and to practical examples of their application

Plants and People Alexandre Chevalier, Elena Marinova, Leonor Pena-Chocarro, 2014-04-30 This first monograph in the EARTH series The dynamics of non industrial agriculture 8 000 years of resilience and innovation approaches the great variety of agricultural practices in human terms It focuses on the relationship between plants and people the complexity of agricultural processes and their organisation within particular communities and societies Collaborative European research among archaeologists archaeobotanists ethnographers historians and agronomists using a broad analytical scale of investigation seeks to establish new common ground for integrating different approaches By means of interdisciplinary examples this book showcases the relationship between people and plants across wide ranging and diverse spatial and temporal milieus including crop diversity the use of wild foodstuffs social context status and choices of food plants

Archaeology Hannah Cobb, Kevin Greene, Tom Moore, 2024-03-19 This fully updated sixth edition of a classic classroom text is essential reading for core courses in archaeology Archaeology An Introduction explains how the subject emerged from an amateur pursuit in the eighteenth century into a serious discipline and explores changing trends in interpretation in recent decades The authors convey the excitement of archaeology while helping readers to evaluate new discoveries by explaining the methods and theories that lie behind them In addition to drawing upon examples and case studies from many regions of the world and periods of the past the book incorporates the authors own fieldwork research and teaching It continues to include key reference and further reading sections to help new readers find their way through the ever expanding range of archaeological publications and online sources as well as colour illustrations and boxed topic sections to increase comprehension Serving as an accessible and lucid textbook and engaging students with contemporary issues this book is designed to support students studying Archaeology at an introductory level New to the sixth edition Inclusion of the latest survey and imaging techniques such as the use of drones and eXtended reality Updated material on developments in dating DNA analysis isotopes and population movement including consideration of the ethical considerations of these techniques Coverage of new developments in archaeological theory such as the material turn ontological turn and work on issues of equality diversity and inclusion A whole new chapter covering archaeology in the present including new sections on heritage and public archaeology and an updated consideration of archaeology s relationship with the climate crisis A revised glossary with over 200 new additions or updates

Food, Culture and Identity in the Neolithic and Early Bronze Age Michael Parker Pearson, 2003 Archaeology literally feeds on the residues and discarded remains of our ancestors meals Such material has spawned a vast field of research and scientific techniques looking at prehistoric diet and food so that we can now learn more about the residues found stuck to the bottom of a Bronze Age pot than what is at the bottom of our own freezers

Identification of Ancient Olive Oil Processing Methods Based on Olive Remains Peter Warnock, 2007 This research focuses on the complex issue of olive oil processing and the resulting technological changes associated with the olive oil industry during this industry s expansion from a small scale domestic to large scale industrial technology during the Chalcolithic through Iron Ages c 4300 586 BC in Syro Palestine The ultimate goal is to see if the level or type of olive oil technology used at sites can be determined based on their olive remains However before this could occur the author prepares a methodology the components of which include 1 an ethnographic study investigating how traditional oil pressing and processing affect olive remains and the incorporation of those remains into the archaeological record and 2 experimental studies to determine how different processing methods might affect olive remains and their incorporation into the archaeological record The results from the experimental and ethnographic studies are then applied to archaeological remains from a Late Neolithic site to determine the possible type of processing technology The type of processing indicated by the comparison of the experimental to the archaeological remains crushing in a small basin matches the olive oil processing artifacts and features found at the site The methods used in this study can be applied to other paleoethnobotanical remains and technologies Contents Introduction Origins and early history of the olive Ethnographic research Experimental research Testing an archaeological sample Olive oil trade and the city state Conclusions Palaeodiet in the Aegean Archaeological Institute of America. General Meeting, 2000 This volume of papers is the result of the Annual Meetings of the Archaeological Institute of America conference Washington 2003 The aim was to present the latest research in the field of palaeodietry studies in the Aegean The theme of palaeodiet was chosen because it is arguably the most important field of study concerning the Aegean which complements archaeological fieldwork Food and drink are just as essential for man's survival as shelter What the ancient peoples in the Aegean ate is as important as the buildings they built or the artifacts they produced The volume discusses how religion social structure and ethnicity effects diet The book also demonstrates skeletal evidence for nutrition in Mesolithic and Neolithic Greece looking at growth oral health bone composition and pathological changes in bone The book challenges current methodology in recovering bio archaeological material whilst offering practical methods for gathering palaeodietary data Agricultural and Pastoral Landscapes in Pre-Industrial Society Félix Retamero, Inge Schjellerup, Althea Davies, 2014-12-01 Through a series of case studies this third volume in the Earth series deals with the technological constraints and innovations that enabled societies to survive and thrive across a range of environmental conditions The contributions are structured into three sections to draw out particular commonalities and contrasts in the choices made by pre industrial communities in the construction of varied landscapes and cultural heritage Landnam from the Old Norse for taking of land deals with colonization including the drivers and processes through which colonizers developed an understanding of the productive potential and limitations of their new lands Fields and field systems Field walls are a distinctive and apparently timeless characteristic of many pre industrial farming landscapes but they present many the challenges to their study such as the effects of plowing abandonment and land use change and of urban development in fertile lowland zones which may eradicate reduce or conceal past systems of land use and division The importance of indirect and proxy evidence is illustrated and the value of interdisciplinary and modeling approaches emphasized Agro pastoralism focuses on the complex time space adaptations devised for managing cultivation and livestock production particularly the need to prevent stock incursions into arable fields during the growing season whilst making effective use of seasonal grazing resources The contributions focus on mountainous areas where temporary migrations in the form of transhumance provided access to a diversity of resources based around seasonal constraints on their availability and productivity

Markiani, Amorgos Lila Marankou, Anastasia Angelopoulou, Neil Brodie, 2006 Markiani in Amorgos is the first rural settlement of the Early Cycladic period to be excavated systematically and published comprehensively Most of our knowledge of the Cycladic islands of Greece in the third millennium BC comes from the well known Cycladic cemeteries with their fine decorated pottery marble vessels and striking marble figurines Early Cycladic remains also underlie the proto urban trading centres of the Aegean Bronze Age such as Phylakopi on Melos or Ayia Irini on Kea Now for the first time we glimpse the life of a country farming community with its rural crafts including spinning and probably weaving and metallurgy The stratified culture sequence with its radiocarbon chronology documents clearly a thousand years of peasant life in this rather isolated island community The site overlooking the sea on the south coast of Amorgos was already fortified towards the beginning of the Bronze Age The abundant finds contrast strikingly with the elite products recovered from the Cycladic cemeteries The abundant pottery is local and undecorated There is a full repertoire of tools and artefacts of stone and bone and the metal finds include a lead seal an indication with the clay sealings of some organisation in production and exchange already in this modest community Written by an internationally recognised team of Greek and British scholars and with its clear documentation and abundant drawings and photographs this volume establishes a new direction in the study of Cycladic prehistory It should become an indispensable work of reference for every archaeological library

The Plain of Phaistos Livingston Vance Watrous, Harriet Blitzer, 2004 Based on fieldwork carried out from 1984 1987 this volume presents an exemplary survey of the Western Mesara region of Crete with detailed treatment of its physical and archaeological characteristics The 15 chapters are grouped into the themes of the natural environment and its use and prehistoric and historical settlement and society Specific chapter topics include geoarchaeology cultural geography of Crete agriculture and subsistence in the Ottoman and post Ottoman periods and chronological chapters describing evidence and interpretation of the area s various civilizations Several appendices contain methods for botanical studies the stone finds and a register of the archaeological sites among other information A series of b w plates an exhaustive bibliography and a glossary are provided Annotation 2005 Book News Inc Portland OR booknews com

Explaining and Exploring Diversity in Agricultural Technology Annelou van Gijn, John Whittaker, Patricia C. Anderson, 2014-08-29 This volume is the outcome of collaborative European research among archaeologists archaeobotanists ethnographers historians and agronomists and frequently uses experiments in archaeology It aims to establish new common ground for integrating different approaches and for viewing agriculture from the standpoint of the human actors involved Each chapter provides an interdisciplinary overview of the skills used and the social context of the pursuit of agriculture highlighting examples of tools technologies and processes from land clearance to cereal processing and food preparation This is the second of three volumes in the EARTH monograph series The dynamics of non industrial agriculture 8 000 years of resilience and innovation which shows the great variety of agricultural practices in human terms in their social political cultural and legal contexts Minoan Kato Zakro Judith Reid, 2007 This study reinterprets the evidence from the well known site of Kato Zakro in eastern Crete in the light of Darwinian evolutionary theory Judith Reid employs a bottom up approach linking the material evidence to its environmental setting and examining strategies of adaptation The Archaeological Journal , 2005 The Journal of Hellenic Studies
