Planning To Live Evaluating And Treating Suicidal Teens In Community Settings:

Planning to Live Mary Jane Rotheram-Borus, Jon Bradley, Nina Obolensky, 1990 Handbook of Adolescent Health Risk Behavior Ralph J. DiClemente, William B. Hansen, Lynn E. Ponton, 2013-11-21 Adolescence is a developmental period of accelerating physical psychological social cultural and cognitive development often characterized by confronting and surmounting a myriad of challenges and establishing a sense of self identity and autonomy It is also unfortunately a period fraught with many threats to the health and well being of adolescents and with substantial consequent impairment and disability Many of the adverse health consequences experienced by adolescents are to a large extent the result of their risk behaviors Many adolescents today and perhaps an increasing number in the future are at risk for death disease and other adverse health outcomes that are not primarily biomedical in origin In general there has been a marked change in the causes of morbidity and mortality among adolescents Previously infectious diseases accounted for a disproportionate share of adolescent morbidity and mortality At present however the overwhelming toll of adolescent morbidity and mortality is the result of lifestyle practices Adolescent Stress Mary Colten, 2017-09-29 Adolescent Stress concentrates on a range of major problems those of a normal developmental nature as well as those of poor adaptation identified in adolescents The Challenge of Permanency Planning in a Multicultural Society Gary R. Anderson, Bogart R. Leashore, 1997 Explains to child welfare workers supervisors trainers and program managers the importance of cultural knowledge sensitivity and skill for putting permanency and stability into the lives of at risk children Considers the role of culture in a family's life and how to use that understanding to prevent unnecessary out of home placements judge when the time is right to reunify parents and children and determine when adoption is the best choice Paper edition 0302 3 19 95 Also published as the Journal of Multicultural Social Work v 5 nos 1 2 3 4 1997 Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR Preventive Strategies on Suicide Diekstra, Gulbinat, Kienhorst, Leo, 2023-07-31 Recent estimates by The World Health Organisation and The World Bank indicate that throughout the world each and every year more than 800 000 persons die as a consequence of suicide This means that the death toll of suicide equals and in many countries even exceeds that of road traffic accidents In addition to the number of suicidal deaths at least ten times as many persons make non fatal attempts to take their lives or harm themselves often seriously enough to require medical attention and not infrequently resulting in irreversible disability But still these figures inadequately describe the magnitude of human loss and suffering caused by suicide If one assumes that for every suicidal death there are at least five persons whose lives are profoundly and often for many years affected by the event emotionally socially and economically by the event then each year millions of survivor victims are added to the tens of millions already out there Hence suicide is an ever recurring catastrophe of the first degree It is not a phenomenon that first and foremost forms a dubious privilege of the so called highly developed countries Suicide also occurs in the developing countries and there is more than suggestive evidence that in several of these countries the suicide rate equals or even surpasses the highest national rates shown by official statistics. It follows that suicide is an extremely important public health problem. It is, however, a problem that is painfully neglected. Throughout the world, resources devoted to the prevention of suicide are only a tiny fraction of those devoted to the prevention of comparable problems such as road traffic accidents or to problems of lesser magnitude at least in the industrialized countries such as HIV infection and Aids. This volume, produced under the supervision and auspices of the World Health Organization, brings together for the first time information on epidemiological, clinical, and preventive intervention aspects regarding suicide that have global significance and applicability. After a detailed description of the epidemiology of suicide and suicidal behaviour on an international scale, a large part of the book is devoted to the how-to's of developing and organizing suicide prevention programs and services in different national and cultural settings, both at clinical and community level. In addition, a wealth of practical information for health care workers and volunteers is provided on how to evaluate and deal with acute suicide risk. Examples of successful preventive intervention programs and projects from the developed as well as the developing world are provided. Legal and ethical problems involved in suicide prevention are also discussed. Finally, both cultural and biological aspects of suicidal behaviour, as well as their clinical practice relevance, are examined.

Out of the Darkness Marion Crook, 2004-01-01. Teen suicide has long been considered one of society's darkest secrets: the idea of troubled young people driven to take their own lives was a tragedy too horrible to contemplate, let alone talk about openly. But the fact remains that teen suicide is an issue that refuses to go away so long as young people in crisis have nowhere to turn. But now, in this age of frank discussions about bullying, peer pressure, and issues of difference, there is a growing sense that teen suicide is no longer a taboo subject and that talking about it can help us to identify and acknowledge the kind of problems that lead teens to make such drastic and tragic decisions. Based on interviews with teen suicide survivors, parents, and professionals, Marion Crook sensitively explores all aspects of teen suicide, in particular the reasons why certain young people are driven to it. The motives are far ranging, but central to all is a sense of desperation. Despite their dire circumstances, however, many find a way out of the darkness and into adult lives of meaning and worth. Marion Crook also examines the history of teen suicide in Western and other cultures, as well as what roles parents and schools can play in suicide prevention and coping strategies for teens in crisis. Out of the Darkness is a book for both teens and adults that breaks the silence surrounding teen suicide, offering hope for those who think there is none. Marion Crook has spent the last fifteen years actively researching the difficulties teens face, relying on the expertise of the teens themselves. This is her twenty-third published book. She teaches at the University in Surrey, B.C., while continuing to research and write.
