The Natural History of the Bible Daniel Hillel, 2006 Traversing river valleys steppes deserts rain fed forests farmlands and seacoasts the early Israelites experienced all the contrasting ecological domains of the ancient Near East As they grew from a nomadic clan to become a nation state in Canaan they interacted with indigenous societies of the region absorbed selective elements of their cultures and integrated them into a radically new culture of their own Daniel Hillel reveals the interplay between the culture of the Israelites and the environments within which it evolved More than just affecting their material existence the region's ecology influenced their views of creation and the creator their conception of humanity's role on Earth their own distinctive identity and destiny and their ethics In The Natural History of the Bible Hillel shows how the eclectic experiences of the Israelites shaped their perception of the overarching unity governing nature's varied manifestations Where other societies idolized disparate and capricious forces of nature the Israelites discerned essential harmony and higher moral purpose Inspired by visionary prophets they looked to a singular omnipresent omnipotent force of nature mandating justice and compassion in human affairs Monotheism was promoted as state policy and centralized in the Temple of Jerusalem After it was destroyed and the people were exiled a collection of scrolls distilling the nation's memories and spiritual quest served as the focus of faith in its stead A prominent environmental scientist who surveyed Israel's land and water resources and has worked on agricultural development projects throughout the region Daniel Hillel is a uniquely qualified expert on the natural history of the lands of the Bible Combining his scientific work with a passionate life long study of the Bible Hillel offers new perspectives on biblical views of the environment and the origin of ethical monotheism as an outgrowth of the Israelites internalized experiences

The Illusory Boundary Martin Reuss, Stephen H. Cutcliffe, 2010-09-20 The view of nature and technology inhabiting totally different even opposite spheres persists across time and cultures Most people would consider an English countryside or a Louisiana bayou to be natural though each is to an extent the product of technology Pollution widely thought to be a purely man made phenomenon results partly from natural processes All around us things from the natural world are brought into the human world At what point do we consider them part of culture rather than nature And does such a distinction illuminate our world or obscure its workings This compelling new book challenges the view that a clear and unwavering boundary exists between nature and technology Rejecting this dichotomy the contributors show how the history of each can be united in a constantly shifting panorama where definitions of nature and technology alter and overlap In addition to recognizing the artificial divide between these two concepts the essays in this book demonstrate how such thinking may affect societies ability to survive and prosper The answers and ideas are as numerous as the landscapes they consider for there is no single path toward a more harmonious vision of technology and nature Technologies that work in one place may not in another Nature that is preserved in one community might become the raw material of technological progress somewhere else Add to this the fact that the natural world and technology are not passive players but are profoundly involved in cultural construction Understanding such dynamics not only reveals a new historical complexity it prepares us for coping with many of the most difficult and pressing social issues facing us today Contributors Peter Coates Craig E Colten Stephen H Cutcliffe Hugh S Gorman Betsy Mendelsohn Joy Parr Peter C Perdue Sara B Pritchard Martin Reuss William D Rowley Edmund Russell Joel A Tarr Ann Vileisis James C Williams Thomas Zeller

Interpretation And Explanation In The Study Of Animal Behavior Ph.D., Marc Bekoff, 2021-11-28 People have long been fascinated not just by the behaviour of non human animals but by the problem of how this behaviour is to be interpreted and explained This is one of two volumes of original essays on the cognitive and emotional dimensions of non human minds and the relationship of natural minds to behaviour The essays also address questions concerning the meaning and significance of consciousness animal intelligence awareness and emotions behavioural plasticity flexibility and constraints on understanding animal minds and the structure of explanation in the study of behaviour

Asia in the Making of Europe, Volume II Donald F. Lach, 2010-01-15 Praised for its scope and depth Asia in the Making of Europe is the first comprehensive study of Asian influences on Western culture For volumes I and II the author has sifted through virtually every European reference to Asia published in the sixteenth century he surveys a vast array of writings describing Asian life and society the images of Asia that emerge from those writings and in turn the reflections of those images in European literature and art This monumental achievement reveals profound and pervasive influences of Asian societies on developing Western culture in doing so it provides a perspective necessary for a balanced view of world history Volume I The Century of Discovery brings together everything that a European could know of India Southeast Asia China and Japan from printed books missionary reports traders accounts and maps The New York Review of Books Volume II A Century of Wonder examines the influence of that vast new body of information about Asia on the arts institutions literatures and ideas of sixteenth century Europe
