Schaeken, 2008 This volume contains articles by 17 slavists from the Low Countries Although they are all about Slavic linguistics they cover a wide range of subjects and their theoretical implications are often not restricted to slavistics alone Most contributions deal with Russian or Slavic in general but South and West Slavic are also represented The reader who knows the strong points for which Dutch slavistics is traditionally known and appreciated will not be disappointed s he will find papers on syntax and semantics Fortuin Van Helden Honselaar Keijsper Tribusinina aspectology Barentsen Genis philology Veder historical Slavic phonology and morphology Derksen Kortlandt Vermeer dialectology Houtzagers Pronk the study of sentence intonation Od and papers representing crossroads between these disciplines philology and historical linguistics Hendriks Schaeken aspectology and philology Kalsbeek Apart from its quality in the linguistic fields enumerated here Dutch Slavic linguistics is known for its empirical approach the main goal is to find explanations for linguistic reality Theory is relevant inasmuch as it helps us to find such explanations and not for its own sake Though each and every paper in this volume exemplifies this empirical attitude it might be especially illustrative to mention that almost all authors who studied the larger contemporary Slavic languages made extensive use of language corpus resources part of which were collected at the University of Amsterdam

Word Prominence in Languages with Complex Morphologies Ksenia Bogomolets, Harry van der Hulst, 2023-03-30 This volume focuses on the theoretical and analytical challenges that languages with complex morphologies pose for the theory and typology of word level prosodic phenomena The morphological complexity and phonological length that are characteristic of words in these languages make them a particularly fruitful ground for investigating the effects of both phonological and morphological factors in the assignment of prominence The first three chapters in the volume explore general theoretical issues pertaining to word prominence in synthetic languages including the issue of wordhood and the empirical theoretical and methodological issues with delineating word level prominence and the higher level prosodic phenomena in these languages These are followed by a series of case studies on stress accent and tone in a geographically and genetically diverse set of languages with highly synthetic morphologies including languages of the Americas Europe and Asia and Australia The volume adopts an interdisciplinary perspective combining phonetic phonological and morphosyntactic insights It will be of interest not only to phonologists and morphologists but to all those interested in the typological and theoretical issues relating to polysynthetic languages

Intonation in Romance Sonia Frota, Pilar Prieto i Vives, 2015 This book offers the first comprehensive description of the prosody of nine Romance languages that takes into account internal dialectal variation Teams of experts examine the prosody of Catalan French Friulian Italian Occitan Portuguese Romanian

Sardinian and Spanish using the Autosegmental Metrical framework of intonational phonology and the Tones and Breaks Indices ToBI transcription system The chapters all share a common methodology based on a common Discourse Completion Task questionnaire and provide extensive empirical data The authors then analyse how intonation patterns work together with other grammatical means such as syntactic constructions and discourse particles in the linguistic marking of a varied set of sentence types and pragmatic meanings across Romance languages The ToBI prosodic systems and annotations proposed for each language are based both on a phonological analysis of the target language as well as on the shared goal of using ToBI analyses that are comparable across Romance languages This book will pave the way for more systematic typological comparisons of prosody across both Romance and non Romance languages
