Life Imprisonment and Human Rights Dirk van Zyl Smit, Catherine Appleton, 2016-12-01 In many jurisdictions today life imprisonment is the most severe penalty that can be imposed Despite this it is a relatively under researched form of punishment and no meaningful attempt has been made to understand its full human rights implications This important collection fills that gap by addressing these two key questions what is life imprisonment and what human rights are relevant to it These questions are explored from the perspective of a range of jurisdictions in essays that draw on both empirical and doctrinal research Under the editorship of two leading scholars in the field this innovative and important work will be a landmark publication in the field of penal studies and human rights

Parole Futures Harry Annison, Nicola Carr, Thomas Guiney, 2025-07-10 Does parole have a future If it does can we begin to imagine a different path Is progressive penal reform possible or has the time come to consider more radical alternatives in a context where there is little if any consensus on the underlying aims and techniques of contemporary prison release What does this all mean for the prisoners families victims and publics upon whose confidence the parole system ultimately depends This book brings together a world leading panel of 27 experts who draw upon insights from law sociology criminology and political science to explore these pressing questions At a time when many parole systems are experiencing considerable strain the aims of this collection are twofold first to encourage systematic and critical reflection on the rationalities institutions and practices of parole Second to think big and pose ambitious what if questions about the possible futures of parole and prison release Offering novel insights from Asia Australia Europe North America and South America this collection builds the case for and then showcases a way of doing parole research that is global in outlook interdisciplinary in approach and unapologetically normative in character

Smit,Catherine Appleton,Giao Vucong,2022-11-30 Life imprisonment is the punishment most often imposed worldwide for what societies regard as the most serious offences Yet in Asia the phenomenon has never been studied systematically Life Imprisonment in Asia fills this major gap It brings together thirteen new essays on life imprisonment in key jurisdictions in the region Each chapter consolidates what is known about the law and practice of life imprisonment in the jurisdiction and then explores aspects of the imposition or implementation of life sentences that the authors regard as particularly problematic In some instances the main issue is the imposition of life sentences by the courts and their relationship to the death penalty In others the focus is on the treatment of life sentenced prisoners In many instances the most prominent question is whether life sentenced prisoners should be released and if so according to what processes In the overview chapter the editors place the complex picture that emerges of life imprisonment in Asia in a global context and point to reforms urgently required to ensure that Asian life sentences meet international human rights standards Life Imprisonment in Asia should be read by everyone who has an interest in just punishments for serious offences not only in Asia but throughout the world It will be an invaluable tool for lawyers criminologists policy makers and penal reform advocates in the region and beyond Complex Criminal Litigation: Prosecuting Drug Enterprises and Organized Crime - Third Edition
