Democracy and Elections in Africa Staffan I. Lindberg, 2006-09-11 Outstanding Academic Title for 2007 Choice Magazine This volume studies elections as a core institution of liberal democracy in the context of newly democratizing countries Political scientist Staffan I Lindberg gathers data from every nationally contested election in Africa from 1989 to 2003 covering 232 elections in 44 countries He argues that democratizing nations learn to become democratic through repeated democratic behavior even if their elections are often flawed Refuting a number of established hypotheses Lindberg finds no general negative trend in either the frequency or the quality of African elections Rather elections in Africa based on his findings are more than just the goal of a transition toward democracy or merely a formal procedure The inception of multiparty elections usually initiates liberalization and repeated electoral activities create incentives for political actors fostering the expansion and deepening of democratic values In addition to improving the democratic qualities of political regimes a sequence of elections tends to expand and solidify de facto civil liberties in society Drawing on a wealth of data Lindberg makes the case that repetitive elections are an important causal factor in the development of democracy He thus extends Rustow s 1970 theory that democratic behavior produces democratic values A Decade of Democracy in Africa ,2002-10-31 The democratic experiment in Africa has had a checkered history over the past ten years Analysts of this process tend to focus on the political and legal space instead of including broader issues such as norms generational change and class Authors in this volume argue that African civil society is less likely to support democracy they measure African democracy by the women s rights movements unravel the mythical hope of technology and point to ideological capitulation necessary for a limited transition Past experience from Botswana South Africa Ghana Kenya Uganda and Madagascar will give the readers an understanding of democracy in Africa Contributors are Judith van Allen Lisa Aubrey Nigel Gibson Richard R Marcus Kenneth Mease Stephen N Ndegwa Stephen Orvis Dan Ottemoeller and Wisdom J Tettey Handbook of Economic Development Kuo-Tsai Liou, 1998-06-25 Featuring over 1900 references drawings and tables and drawing on disciplines as diverse as political economics public management and urban affairs this versatile text offers comprehensive information on major policy and managerial issues important to local and national economic development Pulling together the work of over 40 researchers the book examines the role of government in economic advances and reform provides a complete up to date survey of the literature on local and national economic development details local and regional economic progress in the US adopts an innovative interdisciplinary approach to the study of economic expansion and more

Attention is also given to the conceptual complexities of multidimensional and shared cultural roots of the overlapping phenomena of ethnicity nationalism identity and ideology The book greatly informs discussions of race and ethnicity in the international context and provides an interesting perspective against which to view America's changing problem of race Race and Ethnicity in Comparative Perspective is a timely thought provoking volume that will be of immense value to ethnic studies specialists African American studies scholars political scientists historians and sociologists Public Relations

Root, 2000-07-11 How do political institutions help promote prosperity in some countries and poverty in others What can be done to encourage leaders to govern not for patronage but for economic growth In this book such distinguished political economists as Douglass North Robert Barro and Stephen Haber answer these questions providing a solution to one of the most important policy puzzles of the new century how to govern for prosperity The authors begin from a premise that political leaders are self interested politicians rather than benign agents of the people they lead When leaders depend on only a few backers to stay in power they dole out privileges to those people thereby dissipating their country's total resources and national growth potential On the other hand leaders who need large coalitions to stay in office implement policies that generally foster growth and political competition over ideas The result is that those who promote policies that lead to stagnation tend to stay in office for a long time and those who produce prosperity tend to lose their jobs Analyzing countries in North and South America and Asia the authors discuss the range of political regimes that permit or even encourage leaders to rule by mismanaging their nation's resources And they show that nations must forge institutions that allow all social groups to participate in and benefit from the economy as well as force political leaders to be responsible for policy outcomes
