Prospects For Peacemaking A Citizens Guide To Safer Nuclear Strategy:

Prospects for Peacemaking Harlan Cleveland, Lincoln P. Bloomfield, 2003-02-01 Prospects for Peacemaking provides a genuinely fresh look at embedded assumptions about national security It clears the way for a security policy based less on outmoded premises and more on a purposeful strategy for peace in a nuclear world And it demonstrates one model of a creative interaction between citizens and specialists one that can be replicated in any community To the village square must go the essential facts about atomic weapons Albert Einstein wrote in 1946 From there must come America s voice The seven essays in Prospects for Peacemaking take up Einstein s challenge even more urgent today by demystifying the critical issues of war peace and national security and opening the way for informed citizen involvement in these issues The opening chapter explains why we are currently at a good point for engaging in the process of rethinking American strategic policy Those that follow outline the basic premises of the current relations between the United States and the Soviet Union the way the military thinks about arms and arms control the question of whether negotiations can ever keep up with technology the European perspective on arms control and the special problem of managing crisis situations The book concludes with an essay by Dean Rusk on diplomacy in the nuclear era Prospects for Peacemaking grew out of the Minnesota experiment an extraordinary year long process of dialogue between experts in the arms control community and public citizens sponsored by the University of Minnesota s Hubert H Humphrey Institute of Public Affairs Harlan Cleveland is Professor of Public Affairs and Dean of the Institute Lincoln P Bloomfield is Professor of Political Science at MIT and an adjunct professor at the Humphrey Institute Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists ,1988-04 The Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists is the premier public resource on scientific and technological developments that impact global security Founded by Manhattan Project Scientists the Bulletin s iconic Doomsday Clock stimulates solutions for a safer world Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists ,1987-10

Rethinking the Nuclear Weapons Dilemma in Europe P. Terrence Hopmann, Dr. Frank Barnaby, 1988-06-18 World Constitutionalism Carmo D'Souza, Anthony D'Souza, 2009-03-26 Intellectual quest for World Order is as old as the history of mankind Saints and sages religious visionaries and philosophers from all great civilizations have left their valuable contributions on the peaceful sands of time However much of this wealth has been obliterated by other events of history wherein power might and grandeur were used as the instruments of exploitation by a section of human beings Time has come to research on the past and on its basis to analyze the present and visualize a future for a just world order In World Constitutionalism over two dozen scholars academicians administrators and leaders of civil society have come together to pen their innovative ideas It is an attempt to carry their vision over national barriers through the realms of Human Rights Environmental Law Feminist Justice Global Democracy and so on In the fast evolving twenty first century World Constitutionalism is already exploding on the global scene in all fields of life as human race finds enlightenment through information and networking revolution technology development and conscious spiritual awakening taking place from East to West World Constitutionalism endeavours to foster scientific study of world governance as a multi disciplinary subject with an added flavour of law to give it special sanctity in the minds of the Peoples of the World The book is an addition to the growing movement for World Unity that presently reechoes round the globe     Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists ,1987
