Protecting Our Ports Suzette R. Grillo, Rebecca J. Cruise, 2016-04-08 Since the terrorist attacks of September 11 2001 there has been much discussion of the security of borders and ports of entry in the United States and around the world Ports of entry particularly sea ports are viewed as one of the most defenceless targets for a terrorist attack In response to this perceived vulnerability a number of port security initiatives have been implemented both on both a domestic and international level This timely project investigates a number of issues surrounding the container security issue It examines the scope of containerized freight security analyzes cooperation between agents in the United States and abroad explores the politics of port security and provides an assessment of 17 of the world's sea ports The work sheds light on the container security threat and the domestic and international responses that have emerged as well as those steps that still must be taken

The Biopolitics of Race Sokthan Yeng, 2013-11-11 Many political figures insist that their anti immigration sentiments have nothing to do with race and racism Americans seem largely unconvinced which is why politicians must protest so loudly and often In order to deflect accusations of racism public figures evoke the neo liberal principle that calls for protection of state health and resources Yet contemporary philosophers such as Hanna Arendt Michel Foucault and Giorgio Agamben argue that neo liberal ideology is racist Sokthan Yeng applies their analysis to the debate over immigration policies to show that neo liberalism not only recodes traditional racist rhetoric but also expands systemic racism Politicians can say that their anti immigration policies are meant to protect the nation's economy and strength It is no coincidence however that the populations most affected by these regulations are ethnic and cultural minorities such as Mexican and Muslim immigrants The analysis presented in The Biopolitics of Race will be valuable to philosophers and other scholars or students interested in critical race theory feminism and queer theory It also has implications for anyone working in public health bioethics or migration studies

Homeland Security James J. F. Forest, 2006-06-30 America is a target the homeland is under threat While Americans have been targets of terrorist attacks for quite some time September 11 2001 awoke the nation to the reality that we are vulnerable in our homes our places of work and worship and our means of public transportation And yet we must continue to function as best we can as the world's most vibrant economic and political community The current threat environment requires greater engagement with the public as the necessary eyes and ears of the nation's homeland security infrastructure However to be effective the public must be equipped with the knowledge of where and why specific locations and activities may be a terrorist target what is being done to protect those targets and how they can help This three volume set answers that need The chapters of each volume of Homeland Security revolve around a core of central questions Are we safer today than we were pre 9 11 What steps have been taken in all these areas to protect ourselves What are the threats we face and what new threats have developed since 9 11 Are we staying one step ahead of those who wish to do us harm In 2002 more than 400 million people 122 million cars 11 million trucks 2 4 million freight cars and 8 million containers entered the United States Nearly 60 000 vessels entered the United States at its 301 ports of entry Clearly the amount of activity this represents will require a long term commitment to innovation organizational learning and public vigilance to complement an already overstretched network of government agencies and security professionals The 9/11
