Lawlor, 2017-03-17 Self defense as a legal concept is easy to describe but difficult to apply Generally a person who is without fault may use reasonable force or defensive force for the purpose of defending one's own life or the lives of others including in certain circumstances the use of deadly force provided there is no reasonable alternative to avoid it When someone begins to parse the words of this description however he or she runs immediately into a maze of self defense laws that appear to be at odds with each other Bruce Lawlor clears up the confusion by identifying the major issues that surface in most self defense cases and by describing how the law has dealt with them historically Its purpose is not to provide legal advice but to illuminate the path that must be taken to decide whether a claim of self defense is valid It examines a variety of issues including the duty to retreat and stand your ground laws what is a deadly threat when is fear of mortal danger reasonable and even what happens when a person mistakenly shoots someone in self defense When Deadly Force Is Involved A Look at the
