Neuroeconomics Paul E. Phillips,Jeansok J. Kim, Daeyeol Lee, The brain is the organ of decision making and evolved to maximize the outcomes desirable for the survival and reproduction of the species Compared to the sensory and motor functions of the brain however the process of decision making is less accessible to direct experimental manipulations and hence requires more careful theoretical analyses Indeed the principle of optimality and frequent departures of human behaviors from those predicted for optimal rational decision makers have long been studied experimentally as well as theoretically However it is only recently that neurobiological studies of decision making started exploiting the framework previously developed in economics and psychology systematically This cross disciplinary research program known as neuroeconomics has already been enormously successful Increasingly neuroscientists benefit from the studies of utility theory game theory prospect theory and reinforcement learning theory and contribute to the refinement of such theories by providing more relevant empirical data This Research Topic will showcase the recent advances in neuroeconomics that combine economic and behavioral analyses in neurobiological studies of value based decision making Product and Process Design Jan Harmsen, André B. de Haan, Pieter L. J. Swinkels, 2024-05-20 Product and process design driving sustainable innovation is the 2nd edition of a comprehensive textbook for product and process design courses at BSc MSc EngD and PhD level It covers both heuristics based design methods as well as systems engineering approaches It contains specific methods to co design products and processes so that both designs are better than when these designs are made separately This integrated combination makes the book unique For making designs that contribute to the Sustainable Development Goals of the United Nations specific methods are provided for the People Planet and Prosperity dimensions This second edition of the book includes examples and exercises for each design method which makes it very suitable for teaching purposes The book is furthermore of interest to industrial process and product developers for many industry branches as it provides methods for design modelling and experimental validation for each innovation stage It is also very useful for R D managers as it provides guidelines for essential activities in each innovation stage discovery concept feasibility development detailed engineering leading to successful implementations of new processes and new products Proceedings Hugo Kasper, Hans Härry, 1968 Index to Publications of the Employment and Training Administration, January 1975 Through December 1979 United States. Mohamed M Hafez,Koichhi Oshima,1998-11-20 The first volume of CFD Review was published in 1995 The purpose of this new publication is to present comprehensive surveys and review articles which provide up to date information about recent progress in computational fluid dynamics on a regular basis Because of the multidisciplinary nature of CFD it is difficult to cope with all the important developments in related areas There are at least ten regular international conferences dealing with different aspects of CFD It is a real challenge to keep up with all these activities and to be aware of essential and fundamental contributions in these areas It is hoped that CFD Review will help in this regard by covering the state of the art in this field The present book contains sixty two articles written by authors from the US Europe Japan and China covering the main aspects of CFD There are five sections general topics numerical methods flow physics interdisciplinary applications parallel computation and flow visualization The section on numerical methods includes grids schemes and solvers while that on flow physics includes incompressible and compressible flows hypersonics and gas kinetics as well as transition and turbulence This book should be useful to all researchers in this fast developing field
