Man the Tool-Maker. By Kenneth P. Oakley. Third edition, etc British Museum (Natural History). Nichols, 1964      Models for Deriving Cultural Information from Stone Tools Robson Bonnicksen, 1977-01-01 A model relating human cognition to the decisions made in tool manufacture is advanced as a substitute for those approaches to artifact classification which rely only on morphology The model is related to experiments designed to link specific input conditions in stone fracture with particular output features flake and core attributes and is used to resolve processual questions concerning projectile points from four Palaeo Indian localities Published in English      Transforming the Disciplines Renee P Prys, Mary Jane Cherry, Susan Popham, Elizabeth L Macnabb, 2013-10-31 A jargon free non technical and easily accessible introduction to women s studies All too many students enter academia with the hazy idea that the field of women s studies is restricted to housework birth control and Susan B Anthony Their first encounter with a women s studies textbook is likely to focus on the history and sociology of women s lives While these topics are important the emphasis on them has led to neglect of equally important issues Transforming the Disciplines A Women s Studies Primer is one of the first women s studies textbooks to show feminist scholarship as an active force changing the way we study such diverse fields as architecture bioethics history mathematics religion and sports studies Although this text was designed as an introduction to women s studies it is also rewarding for upper level or graduate students who want to understand the pervasive effects of feminist theory Most chapters provide a bibliography or list of further reading of significant works Its clear jargon free prose makes feminist thought accessible to general readers without sacrificing the revolutionary power of its ideas In almost thirty essays covering a broad range of subjects from anthropology to chemistry to rhetoric Transforming the Disciplines exemplifies the changes achieved by feminist thought Transforming the Disciplines combines a high standard of writing and scholarship with personal insight includes both traditional academic arguments and alternative non agonistic forms of discussion embraces an international scope challenges traditional assumptions models and methodologies offers an inter and multidisciplinary approach strengthens readers understanding of the big picture not only for women but for all disempowered groups critiques feminism as well as patriarchal society Feminist theory is grounded in a questioning of traditional assumptions about what is right natural and self evident not just about the roles and nature of men and women but about how we think what we teach whose experience matters and what is important Transforming the Disciplines is the first textbook to show the consequences of those questions not the answers themselves but the consequences of the willingness to ask and the transformations that have occurred when the right answers changed      Memoir, 1964      Machine Shop and Tool Room Occupations United States Employment Service, 1938      High Altitude Primates Nanda B. Grow, Sharon Gursky-Doyen, Alicia Krzton, 2013-11-19 The basic goal of the volume is to compile the most up to date research on how high altitude affects the behavior ecology evolution and conservation status of primates especially in comparison to lowland populations Historically the majority of primate studies have focused on lowland populations However as the lowlands have been disappearing more and more primatologists have begun studying populations located in higher altitudes High altitude populations are important not only because of their uniqueness but also because they highlight the range of primate adaptability and the complex variables that are involved in primate evolution These populations are good examples of how geographic scales result in diversification and or speciation Yet there have been very few papers addressing how this high altitude environment affects the behavior ecology and conservation status of these primates
