Man Who Could Work Miracles A Critical Text Of The 1936 New York

David Kirk

Man Who Could Work Miracles A Critical Text Of The 1936 New York:

Man who Could Work Miracles Herbert George Wells, 2003 A film ostensibly a comedy that Wells scripted for the 1937 London Film Productions Wells himself says it is a companion piece to Things to Come his deadly serious film done a year before Both films were produced by Alexander Korda Does the text show Wells's overriding sense of cosmic vision his views on sex and politics and his uncommon estimate of the common man's incapacity for public affairs You decide H. G.

Wells, Modernity and the Movies Keith Williams, 2007-12-01 This book investigates Wells's interest in cinema and related media technologies by placing it back into the contemporary cultural and scientific contexts giving rise to them It plugs a gap in understanding Wells's contribution to exploring and advancing the possibilities of cinematic narrative and its social and ideological impacts in the modern period Previous studies concentrate on adaptations this book accounts for the specifically proto cinematic techniques and concerns of Wells's texts It also focuses on contemporary film making in dialogue with his ideas Alongside Hollywood's later transactions it gives equal weight to neglected British and continental European dimensions Chapter 1 shows how early writings The Time Machine and short stories feature many kinds of radically defamiliarised vision These constitute imaginative speculations about the forms and potentials of moving image and electronic media Chapter 2 discusses the power of voyeurism absent presence and the disjunction of sound image reproduction implied in The Invisible Man and its topical politics updated in notable screen versions Chapter 3 extends this to dystopian warnings of systematic surveillance broadcasting of celebrity personae and post literate video culture in When the Sleeper Wakes a crucial template for urban futures on film Chapter 4 analyses Wells's belated return to screenwriting in the 1930s It accounts for his broadbrow ambition of mediating between popular and avant garde tendencies to promote his cause and its mixed results in Things to Come The Man Who Could Work Miracles etc Chapter 5 finally surveys Wells's legacy on both small and large screens It considers whether as well as being raided for scenarios for spectacular effects his subtexts still nourish an evolving tradition of alternative SF which duly critiques the innovations and applications of its host media The Wellsian John S. Partington, 2003 In The Wellsian Selected Essays on H G Wells John S Partington brings together a selection of the finest articles published in The Wellsian the journal of the H G Wells Society from 1981 to the present The volume covers a wide breadth of Wells's work and thought with essays from Lyman Tower Sargent on utopianism Patrick Parrinder on The Time Machine David Lake's textual analysis of the scientific romances Michael Sherborne on Wells and Plato and many others With The Time Machine The Island of Doctor Moreau The War of the Worlds The Sea Lady The Food of the Gods and The Door in the Wall all receiving detailed attention this volume promises to be a worthy memorial to the first twenty five years of The Wellsian As well as celebrating Wells's greatest literary achievements it explores the philosophical basis of his thought and through several comparative studies takes an interdisciplinary approach to his aesthetic concerns Science-fiction Studies ,2008 American Book Publishing Record ,2002 Man Who Could

Work Miracles H.G. Wells, 2012-04-12 Man Who Could Work Miracles without a The is a 1937 film ostensibly a comedy that H G Wells scripted late in life for London Film Productions This work is a literary text of the scenario and dialogue published in advance of the movie's release Wells himself says it is a companion piece to Things to Come his deadly serious film done a year before also produced by Alexander Korda The editor's introduction explains how two such radically different films are related and discusses the artistic quality of the text Wells overriding sense of cosmic vision his views on sex and politics and his uncommon estimate of the common man's incapacity for public affairs The world's foremost Wellsian scholar here brings his unique analytical powers to bear on in the opinion of many the strangest work Wells ever wrote The appendices include the 1898 short story version The Man Who Could Work Miracles three related cosmic vision short stories by Wells and an excerpt from a 1931 radio address by Wells not inaccurately retitled If I Were Dictator of the World Bibliographic Index, 2007

The Invisible Man Herbert George Wells, 1998 A teacher of Wells Stover emeritus anthropology Illinois Institute of Technology explicates one of Wells scientific romances a genre that a 19th century critic called a condition of England novel reflecting the growing social unrest of the middle class The editor introduces the text as science fiction and as a dialectic of human destiny discusses the cryptic epilogue first included in this edition So ends the strange and evil experiment of the Invisible Man and appends early reviews and other relevant commentary c Book News Inc G.K. Hall Bibliographic Guide to Theatre Arts New York Public Library. Research Libraries, 2003

The Island of Doctor Moreau Herbert George Wells, 1996 Sciences such as gene splicing and bioengineering are foretold in Wells's haunting visionary fable The book created a sensation when it first appeared in 1896 and Wells himself later deemed the work an exercise in youthful blasphemy However when you have science fiction adventure and horror how can you go wrong A shipwreck victim is stranded on an island run by the mysterious Dr Moreau who seems hospitable enough but the jungle is full of menacing shapes and what about those ominous references to the House of Pain We gradually learn of Moreau's unholy experiments and worry that the hero will never escape The Pronouncer of the Law is as creepy as in all the filmed adaptations Are we not men

The First Men in the Moon Herbert George Wells, 1998 Completes the series of Wells 1866 1946 science fiction classics In a long introduction and extensive footnotes editor Leon Stover argues that the anthill society of the moonlings was not a dystopia but a model of what Wells advocated for humans He draws on Wells other fiction and his non fiction political works to buttress the claim Appended are a review by Arnold Bennett two essays by Wells his and Jules Verne's views of each other and a couple contemporary scientific articles c Book News Inc World Authors, 1900-1950, 1996 Provides almost 2700 articles on twentieth century authors from all over the world who wrote in English or whose works are available in English translation
