Man Weather Sun:

The karmic influence of geomagnetism on weather and man, the living barometer A Himalayan Master of Wisdom, 2020-06-12 Earth currents terrestrial magnetism and atmospheric electricity are all due to the fact that the earth is an electrified conductor whose potential is ever changing owing to its rotation and its annual orbital motion the successive cooling and heating of the air the formation of clouds and rain storms and winds All such changes are due to akashic magnetism incessantly generating electric currents which tend to restore the disturbed equilibrium by producing weather changes and sudden disturbances It is the earth's magnetism that produces wind storms and rain The Sun has nothing to do whatsoever with rain and very little with heat High above our earth's surface the air is filled with magnetic or meteoric dust which does not even belong to our solar system As earth is passing through space millions of meteors and fine meteoric particles reach us daily without having undergone any change the magnetism of the earth keeping them in cohesion The relative distribution and proportion of land and water on our globe may be due to the great accumulation upon it of meteoric dust snow especially in the northern regions being full of meteoric iron and magnetic particles such deposits are found even in the bottom of oceans and seas And therefore the northern hemisphere receives a greater proportion of meteoric dust than the southern because of the number of continents and abundance of snow and moisture Our Master calls meteoric dust a mass for it is really one Every atmospheric change and abrupt disturbance is due to the combined magnetism of the two great masses between which our atmosphere is compressed Our earth's magnetic attraction of meteoric dust and the direct influence of the latter upon the sudden changes of temperature especially in the matter of heat and cold is still not a settled question The Sun we see is not the central planet of our little universe but only a veil or reflection of the Central Spiritual Sun of all Universes and solar systems The head of a man in a strong ecstatic condition when all the electricity of his system is centred around the brain will represent especially in darkness a perfect simile of the Sun during such periods The further the emanation of the Sun shoots out the more it loses in intensity until gradually subsiding it fades out Hence the rayed shape of the outer corona whose effulgence proceeds from the magnetic nature of matter and electric energy and not at all from intensely hot particles as asserted by some astronomers The Sun being the heart and brain of our Universe we might compare its bright spots with the blood corpuscles of that luminary though some of them are as large as Europe The coronal changes have no effect upon the earth's climate though the spots have The Sun is neither a solid nor a liquid nor yet a gaseous globe It is a gigantic ball of electromagnetic forces the store house of universal life and motion from which the latter pulsate in all directions feeding the smallest atom as the greatest genius with the same material to the end of the Maha Yuga The Sun gives to All and takes back nothing from its planetary system The Sun is Life itself the all pervading life ever at work in its great laboratory No planets except one have hitherto been discovered outside of the solar system while we know with the sole help of our spiritual eye a number of them every fully matured Sun star having like in our own system several companion planets in fact Every phenomenon is but the effect of the diversified motions of Akasha the One Element and Causative Principle of All There is a King star right behind Jupiter that no mortal eye has ever seen during this Round Could it be so perceived it would appear as a small dimensionless point thrown into the shadow by the brightness of any planet Nevertheless this Raja Star is thousands of times larger than Jupiter The Empire of Climate David N. Livingstone, 2024-04-16 How the specter of climate has been used to explain history since antiquity Scientists journalists and politicians increasingly tell us that human impacts on climate constitute the single greatest threat facing our planet and may even bring about the extinction of our species Yet behind these anxieties lies an older much deeper fear about the power that climate exerts over us The Empire of Climate traces the history of this idea and its pervasive influence over how we interpret world events and make sense of the human condition from the rise and fall of ancient civilizations to the afflictions of the modern psyche Taking readers from the time of Hippocrates to the unfolding crisis of global warming today David Livingstone reveals how climate has been critically implicated in the politics of imperial control and race relations been used to explain industrial development market performance and economic breakdown and served as a bellwether for national character and cultural collapse He examines how climate has been put forward as an explanation for warfare and civil conflict and how it has been identified as a critical factor in bodily disorders and acute psychosis A panoramic work of scholarship The Empire of Climate maps the tangled histories of an idea that has haunted our collective imagination for centuries shedding critical light on the notion that everything from the wealth of nations to the human mind itself is subject Man, Weather, Sun William Ferdinand Petersen, 1947 to climate s imperial rule The Boy with the U. research chiefly on plants volume 2 turns to animal and human rhythms and the disciplinary contexts for chronobiological investigation and volume 3 focuses primarily on twentieth century researchers who modeled biological clocks and sought them out including three molecular biologists whose work in determining clock mechanisms earned them a Nobel Prize in 2017 Munsey's Magazine ,1918 Monthly Weather Review ,1894
