The book concludes with culturally supportable strategies for value based leadership to ensure business success. Supported by a Chinese project team consisting of researchers, educators, writers and editors, business leaders and other stakeholders, this culturally relevant series has been written for both new and experienced business leaders and entrepreneurs, leadership consultants and trainers, and post secondary leadership programs in China. However, stakeholders in the West will also find great value in this comprehensive exploration of value based leadership. A Mandarin version will soon be available from a Chinese Publisher. Also available in Mandarin.

The Scripting of A National History Lysa Hong, Jianli Huang, 2008-04-01. Rather than presenting another narrative of Singapore history, The Scripting of a National History: Singapore and Its Pasts studies the constructed nature of the history endorsed by the state, which blurs the distinction between what happened in the past and how the state intends that past to be understood. The People's Action Party (PAP) government's unbroken mandate to rule has come in no small part from the way it explains its lineage and record to Singaporeans. The power vested in various aspects of Singapore's history is thus examined through a consideration of past and present politics. The authors trace state discourses on Singapore history from the decision immediately after independence to recognize the nineteenth century British acquisition of the island as its founding moment to the 1980s and 1990s when an essentially Confucian heritage was recognized under the rubric of Asian values, and finally to an emphasis on the history of racial fragility and harmony in response to the threat of terrorism in the twenty first century. Embedded within these discourses is the story of the PAP as the heir of the economic dynamics of the pax Britannica, as an exponent of the morality and righteousness of the Chinese scholar gentleman, and as the firm hand that balances the interests of the majority Chinese against those of the minority populations, particularly the Malays. The authors examine the underlying template of Singapore history: the negotiation with its immigrant past and the popularization of history through conscription of national heroes. The chapters range from considering how political leaders claim to be historians by virtue of being the makers of history to the vicissitudes undergone by two originally private homes turned into symbols of Singapore's Chinese modernity. The Scripting of a National History: Singapore and Its Pasts is highly relevant not only to academics but also for the Singapore general reader interested to see what are meant to be received wisdoms for the citizenry interrogated in a well reasoned and engaging exercise, as well as for an international readership to whom Singapore has become a fascinating enigma. They may well be intrigued by the anxieties of being Singaporean. China Unbound Paul A. Cohen, 2003. This is a collection by one of the leading experts on modern Chinese history and historiography. Paul

Cohen In this absorbing volume he consistently argues for fresh ways of approaching the Chinese past training his critical spotlight alternately on Western historians Chinese historians and the history itself The selection provides a persuasive critique of older approaches to nineteenth and twentieth century history and offers powerful reinterpretations of such diverse topics as the Boxer uprising American China historiography nationalism popular religion and reform While maintaining the view that culture is important the author also suggests that the claims of Western and Chinese cultural difference have largely been exaggerated and have unnecessarily encouraged cultural stereotyping and caricaturing Paul Cohen suggests by repeatedly foregrounding common elements in the thinking and behaviour of Chinese and non Chinese that historians can render China s history intelligible meaningful and even relevant to people in the West With the application of the China centred approach to recent areas of scholarly interest and the expansion and rewriting of essays on more traditional topics Paul Cohen has written a significant contribution to the literature on Chinese history and historiography Twentieth Century American Literature Warren French,1980-11-01 The Palgrave Encyclopedia of Interest Groups, Lobbying and Public Affairs Phil Harris,Alberto Bitonti,Craig S.
