Management Of Child Protection Servicescontext And Change:

The Management of Child Protection Services Robert Sanders, 2019-05-23 First published in 1999 The Management of Child Protection Services is not about child abuse but about child protection It is about the arrangements that professionals from different disciplines make to ensure they operate together effectively to protect the most vulnerable children in society The book examines five different contexts of child protection historical cross cultural structural managerial and professional and consideration of the operation of Area Child Protection Committees In exploring these contexts the book seeks to address such questions as how can universal standards be applied to protect vulnerable children whilst avoiding ethnocentrism and from where are derived historically and cross culturally the models of child protection adopted in the UK today It also seeks to identify the different professional contexts roles and contributions of agencies involved in child protection with a view to promoting interdisciplinary understanding These questions and understandings are necessary if changes currently being contemplated are to enhance the effectiveness of child protection An Introduction to Working with Children Matthew Colton, Robert Sanders, Margaret Williams, 2017-03-14 This is a comprehensive introduction to social work with children that integrates theoretical debates with a full and sensitive exploration of practice concerns It systematically examines all the common and pressing issues in child welfare and considers the implications of recent research legislation and policy shifts for current and future practice Balanced wide ranging and highly readable with plenty of case study examples and other practice elements to foster reflection and understanding it provides a sound knowledge base in the child welfare field and lays an excellent foundation for further skill development

Understanding System Change in Child Protection and Welfare John Canavan, Carmel Devaney, Caroline McGregor, Aileen Shaw, 2021-11-29 This book provides an account of the experience of a multifaceted system change programme to strengthen the capacity of Ireland's statutory child protection and welfare agency in the areas of prevention early intervention and family support Many jurisdictions globally are involved in system change processes focused on increasing investment in services that seek to prevent children's entry into child protection and welfare systems through early intervention greater support to families and an increased emphasis on rights and participation Based on a four year in depth study by a team of University based researchers this text adds to the emerging knowledge base on developing implementing and evaluating system change in child protection and welfare Study methodological approaches were wide ranging and involved a number of key stakeholders including children parents social workers and social care workers service managers agency leaders and policy makers Since the change process involved an agency university partnership encompassing design technical support and evaluation the book also contributes to understandings of the potential and limits of such partnerships in the child protection and welfare field Uniquely the book gives voice to the experience of both agency personnel and academic in the accounts provided It will be of interest to all scholars students and practitioners in the areas of child protection and welfare

Trust and Confidence in Government and Public Services Sue Llewellyn, Stephen Brookes, Ann Mahon, 2013-10-28 Trust and confidence are topical issues. Pundits claim that citizens trust governments and public services increasingly less, identifying a powerful new erosion of confidence that in the US goes back at least to Watergate in the 1970s. Recently media exposure in the UK about MP expenses has been extensive and a court case ruled in favor of publishing expense claims and against exempting MPs from the scrutiny which all citizens are subject to under freedom of information. As a result, revelations about everything from property speculation to bespoke duck pond houses have fueled public outcry and survey evidence shows that citizens increasingly distrust the government with public resources. This book gathers together arguments and evidence to answer questions such as: What is trust? Can trust be boosted through regulation? What role does leadership play in rebuilding trust? How does trust and confidence affect public services? The chapters in this collection explore these questions across several countries and different sectors of public service provision: health, education, social services, the police, and the third sector. The contributions offer empirical evidence about how the issues of trust and confidence differ across countries and sectors and develop ideas about how trust and confidence in government and public services may adjust in the information age.

Change and Continuity in Children's Services Roy Parker, 2016-06-01 This collection of 12 new and revised essays on child care and children's services, written by leading child welfare historian Roy Parker, draws on his lifetime of research in this area. By exploring various topics, these essays explain significant political, economic, legal, and ideological aspects of this history from the mid 1850s. This unique and lasting review of child care services allows readers to understand how the services for some of society's most vulnerable children have become what they are, how well they have met and now meet the needs of those children. The collection provides a high quality historical reference resource that will inform and capture the interest of social work and social policy students as well as social and legal historians, political scientists, and those involved in administration and government struggling with the issues of the day.

Contextual Safeguarding and Child Protection Carlene Firmin, 2020-05-20 This book offers a complete account of Contextual Safeguarding theory, policy, and practice frameworks for the first time. It highlights the particular challenge of extra-familial routes through which young people experience significant harm, such as child sexual exploitation, criminal exploitation, serious youth violence, domestic abuse in teenage relationships, bullying, gang association, and radicalisation. Through analysing case reviews, observing professionals, and co-creating practices with them, Firmin provides a personal, philosophical, strategic, and practical account of the design, implementation, and future of Contextual Safeguarding. Drawing together a wealth of practice examples, case studies, policy references, and practitioner insights for the first time, this book articulates a new safeguarding framework and provides a detailed account of its translation across an entire child protection system and its relevant component parts. It will be of interest to all scholars, students, and professionals working within social work, youth justice, and youth work, policing, and law enforcement, community safety, council services, forensic, and clinical.

psychology counselling health and education Treating Families and Children in the Child Protective System Wes Crenshaw, 2004-06 Crenshaw proposes a new integration of many of the existing theories and practices of family and child counselling with those of the welfare child protection and social services programs Inclusive Leadership in Social Work and Social Care Trish Hafford-Letchfield, Sharon Lambley, Gary Spolander, Christine Cocker, 2014-03-01 This critical and reflexive book looks closely at the pivotal but demanding role that leadership and management play in promoting social work and social care Focusing on the value that can be created when the relationships between the people delivering and those using public services are effective the contributors explore the conditions required to nourish confidence inspire self esteem unlock potential and balance inequality Aimed at both new and experienced social managers it draws on a range of disciplines not typically found in social work and social care studies encouraging readers to broaden their examination of leadership Oxford Handbook of Child Protection Systems Jill Duerr Berrick, Neil Gilbert, Marit Skivenes, 2023 This Handbook describes the ways in which 50 countries from every continent except Antarctica have devised measures to protect children from maltreatment and exploitation The Handbook discusses the legislative responses public administrative systems and the social service networks that governments utilize to secure children's safety Synthesizing data from across the world the authors suggest a global typology of child protection systems for understanding the diversity of service responses
