Neanderthals In The Levant Behavioral Organization And The Beginnings Of Human Modernity:

Neanderthals in the Levant Donald O. Henry, 2003-10-01 The volume traces the controversy that revolves around the bio cultural relationships of Archaic Neanderthal and Modern humans at global and regional Levantine scales The focus of the book is on understanding the degree to which the behavioral organization of Archaic groups differed from Moderns To this end a case study is presented for a 44 70 000 year old Middle Paleolithic occupation of a Jordanian rockshelter The research centering on the spatial analysis of artifacts hearths and related data reveals how the Archaic occupants of the shelter structured their activities and placed certain conceptual labels on different parts of the site The structure of Tor Faraj is compared to site structures defined for modern foragers in both ethnographic and archaeological contexts to measure any differences in behavioral organization The comparisons show very similar structures for Tor Faraj and its modern cohorts The implications of this finding challenge prevailing views in the emergence of modern human controversy in which Archaic groups are thought to have had inferior cognition and less complex behavioral social organization than modern foragers And it is generally thought that such behaviors only emerged after the appearance of the Upper Paleolithic dated some 10 20 000 years later than the occupation of Tor Faraj

The Oxford Handbook of the Archaeology and Anthropology of Hunter-Gatherers Vicki Cummings, Peter Jordan, Marek Zvelebil, 2014-04-24 For more than a century the study of hunting and gathering societies has been central to the development of both archaeology and anthropology as academic disciplines and has also generated widespread public interest and debate The Oxford Handbook of the Archaeology and Anthropology of Hunter Gatherers provides a comprehensive review of hunter gatherer studies to date including critical engagements with older debates new theoretical perspectives and renewed obligations for greater engagement between researchers and indigenous communities Chapters

The Lithic Assemblages of Qafzeh Cave Erella Hovers, 2009-06-09 This book presents the first comprehensive description of the lithic assemblages from Qafzeh Cave one of only two Middle Paleolithic sites in the Levant that has yielded multiple burials of early anatomically modern Homo sapiens AMHs The record from this region raises the question of possible long term temporal overlap between early AMHs and Neanderthals For this reason Qafzeh has long been one of the pivotal sites in debates on the origins of AMHs and in attempts to compare and contrast the two species adaptations and behavior Although the hominin fossils from the site were published years ago until now the associated archaeological assemblages were incompletely described often leading to conflicting interpretations This monograph includes a thorough technological analysis of the lithic assemblages incorporated in their geological and sedimentological contexts This description serves as a springboard for regional comparisons as well as a more general discussion about Middle Paleolithic behavior which is relevant to important and as yet unresolved questions on the origins of modern behavior patterns The volume includes a wide ranging and up to date bibliography that provides the middle range for discussing the ecological context and behavioral complexity of the Middle Paleolithic period and ends with some thought provoking conclusions about the dynamic human interactions that existed in the region during this time

The Gender of Debt Mariano Pavanello, 2019-03-27 This book demonstrates from a historical and an economic point of view how the female contribution has been so determinant in the success of our species and how it is linked to male dominance Male hunting and female gathering were the two forces of production during 99% of the life of mankind on Earth Ethnographic evidence shows that female gathering is more productive and less time consuming than male hunting Therefore the prehistoric communities of Homo sapiens could manage their social labor time in the most productive way only if women lent their time to men through the supply of basic energy a debt that men incurred since the dawn of history but never acknowledged It is time now to give the gender economic relations the crucial place they deserve in a theory of human cooperation and sociality without forgetting that it is necessarily a theory of social inequality

Andrew S. Fairbairn, Sue O'Connor, Benjamin Marwick, 2009-02-01 Archaeological Science meetings will have a personality of their own depending on the focus of the host archaeological fraternity itself The 8th Australasian Archaeometry meeting follows this pattern but underlying the regional emphasis is the continuing concern for the processes of change in the landscape that simultaneously effect and illuminate the archaeological record These are universal themes for any archaeological research with the increasing employment of science based studies proving to be a key to understanding the place of humans as subjects and agents of change over time This collection of refereed papers covers the thematic fields of geoarchaeology archaeobotany materials analysis and chronometry with particular emphasis on the first two The editors Andrew Fairbairn Sue O Connor and Ben Marwick outline the special value of these contributions in the introduction The international nature of archaeological science will mean that the advances set out in these papers will find a receptive audience among many archaeologists elsewhere There is no doubt that the story that Australasian archaeology has to tell has been copiously enriched by incorporating a widening net of advanced science based studies This has brought attention to the nature of the environment as a human artefact a fact now more widely appreciated and archaeology deals with these artefacts among others in this way in this publication

The Evolution of Paleolithic Technologies Steven L.

Kuhn, 2020-09-14 The Evolution of Paleolithic Technologies provides a novel perspective on long term trajectories of evolutionary change in Paleolithic tools and tool makers Members of the human lineage have been producing stone tools for more than 3 million years These artefacts provide key evidence for important evolutionary developments in hominin behaviour and cognition Avoiding conventional approaches based on progressive stages of development this book instead examines global trends in six separate dimensions of technological behaviour between 2.6 million and 10 000 years ago Combining these independent trends results in both a broader and a more finely punctuated perspective on key intervals of change in hominin behaviour To draw this picture together the concluding section explores behavioural cognitive and demographic implications of developments in material culture and technological procedures at seven key intervals during the Pleistocene Researchers interested in Paleolithic archaeology will find this book invaluable It will also be of interest to archaeologists researching stone tool technology and to students of human evolution and behavioural change in prehistory
