Pacific 2010 Rodney V. Cole,1996 The provision of adequate and appropriate education is a challenge faced by all governments The particular challenge faced by both government and non government policy makers in Melanesia is to ensure that where mainstream education is inappropriate or unavailable opportunities for self improvement exist alongside the formal education system There is a clear need for non formal education in Pacific island countries but it must be focused in order to satisfy the needs of the people it is intended to target Here local success stories highlight the potential benefits of an integrated non formal education system This book examines the need for non formal education to become an integral part of education planning in Melanesian countries and offers guidelines for decisionmakers Non-Formal Education Alan Rogers,2007-03-06 The Comparative Education Research Centre CERC at the University of Hong Kong is proud and privileged to present this book in its series CERC Studies in Comparative Education Alan Rogers is a distinguished figure in the field of non formal education and brings to this volume more than three decades of experience The book is a masterly account which will be seen as a milestone in the literature It is based on the one hand on an exhaustive review of the literature and on the other hand on extensive practical experience in all parts of the world It is a truly comparative work which fits admirably into the series Much of the thrust of Rogers work is an analysis not only of the significance of non formal education but also of the reasons for changing fashions in the development community Confronting a major question at the outset Rogers ask why the terminology of non formal education which was so much in vogue in the 1970s and 1980s practically disappeared from the mainstream discourse in the 1990s and initial years of the present century Much of the book is therefore about paradigms in the domain of development studies and about the ways that fashions may gloss over substance East Timor Hal Hill,Joao Mariano de Sousa Saldanha,2001 As the world s newest independent nation the challenges facing East Timor are particularly acute Per capita income is roughly 300 making it one of the world s poorest nations There also remains the possibility of difficult relations with its giant neighbor Indonesia This comprehensive volume is the first serious analysis of East Timor s economic prospects It draws on local as well as international expertise from both academics and policy makers Issues covered include international economic relations agriculture finance and infrastructure and political institutions Pacific 2010 John Connell,John P.
