High-Performance Liquid Chromatography of Peptides and Proteins Colin T. Mant,Robert S. Hodges,2017-11-22 This book consists of a series of 82 precise easy to read articles by internationally renowned scientists and emphasizes the practical approach to HPLC with minimal theory although the underlying principles for peptide and protein separations are clearly expressed All of the major modes of microbore ultrafast and analytical HPLC are discussed including size exclusion ion exchange reversed phase hydrophobic interaction and affinity and immunoaffinity chromatography A section on preparative HPLC including displacement techniques is also presented Problem solving approaches to the separation of various classes of biologically active peptides and proteins are thoroughly explored while the importance of peptide standards for monitoring column performance and for optimizing separation conditions is emphasized Several articles focus on the choice of the correct detection method electrochemical UV fluorescence as well as the need for a proper knowledge of approaches to column and instrument maintenance and trouble shooting A section on predictive approaches deals with both computer simulation of peptide separations and peptide structure The book also includes complementary techniques to HPLC as well as other useful applications of HPLC It enables both novice and experienced chromatographers to realize the full potential of this extremely powerful technique in the process making an important contribution to scientific literature

Size Exclusion Chromatography Sadao Mori,Howard G. Barth,2013-03-09 Although size exclusion chromatography SEC is perhaps the most popular and widely used technique for determining the molecular weight distribution of polymeric materials there have been very few texts written on this topic During the past decade SEC has experienced a considerable amount of growth in regard to column and detector technology and new applications With these advances SEC can now be used for determining absolute molecular weight polymer chain conformation and size and branching as well as polymer solution properties This book introduces the reader to the fundamentals of SEC with emphasis on practical aspects of the technique such as column and mobile selection calibration

new detector capabilities and guidelines for performing SEC on most types of polymers especially those of industrial importance This book is intended for either those new to the field of SEC or for those research workers who require a more comprehensive background USITC Publication ,1997 Sustainable Environmental Protection Technologies Pranas Baltrėnas,Edita Baltrėnaitė,2020-07-08 This book discusses the need for the development of sustainable environmental protection technologies to reduce the impact of environmental contaminants Three levels of sustainable technologies are addressed The first level involves the concept of sustainable technologies as natural technologies or ecotechnologies whereby contamination level is assessed based on the contamination footprint through the use of biogeochemical barriers e g methods utilizing the bioaccumulation properties of plants The second level concerns the use of sustainable natural materials such as biochar in environmental engineering systems an approach that is used for analyzing the processes of adsorption and biofiltration as well as immobilization of contaminants in soil The third level discusses the optimal components necessary to achieve sustainability in environmental engineering systems including system operation principles structural solutions and the synergies between various system components such as microorganisms The book will be of interest to specialists of industrial enterprises engaged in environmental protection as well as environmental system designers stakeholders from environmental protection ministries and institutions researchers doctoral students and masters and bachelors of science in the field of environmental engineering Advanced Packaging Technologies For Fruits and Vegetables Roby Jose Cijju,2021-03-18 The book begins with a short narration of current packaging practices followed by present day horticulture industry After pointing out the disadvantages of some of the current practices the author categorically states that we do not need to religiously follow traditional packaging practices if we are serious about curtailing the supply chain loss of fruits and vegetables The author goes on listing out various types of packaging materials that are available today before addressing the major theme of the book i e Modern Innovations in Packaging Materials and Packaging Technologies MAP films MIP films and active and intelligent packing materials are described in detail under this topic Manufacturing process of polymer based packing materials is also described for the better understanding of the reader The author then elaborates on how to select a suitable packing material for your horticultural produce Major two parameters that are to be considered are packing material properties and product specific properties The author makes a reference of various packaging designs and packaging standards also for those who are interested in these topics According to the author advanced packaging technologies such as modified atmosphere packaging modified interactive packaging active and intelligent packaging TBG technology and packaging technology for microwaveable containers are going to make a big difference in the way how highly perishable fruits and vegetables are packed and consumed Finally the author gives a short narration of various types of packaging machines that are available today and also lists out major global suppliers of packaging solutions for horticulture industry
