

The background of the book cover is a microscopic image of a blood smear. It features numerous small, pale, circular red blood cells (erythrocytes) scattered across the field. Interspersed among them are several larger white blood cells (leukocytes) with prominent, dark purple nuclei and some with visible light blue cytoplasm. The overall color palette is dominated by the pale pinkish-tan of the red blood cells and the deep purple of the leukocyte nuclei.

Pediatric Hematology Nicholas J. Goulden, Colin G. Steward, 2008-02-01 Much of the progress in the diagnosis classification and treatment of childhood hematological disorders has come from a partnership between clinicians and scientists Indeed access to molecular techniques is now an integral part of the practice of modern pediatric hematology The aim of Pediatric Hematology Methods and Protocols is to provide a collection of scientific protocols that cover the major aspects of the discipline Most clinicians will be familiar with the difficulties inherent in establishing the underlying diagnosis in genetic marrow failure syndromes A particular concern is failure to diagnose those associated with DNA repair defects In Chapter 1 Dokal and colleagues present simple protocols for the molecular investigation of Fanconi anemia and dyskeratosis congenita Molecular diagnosis is also important in children with congenital pure red cell aplasia owing to the highly variable phenotype of this condition In Chapter 2 Ball describes relevant protocols for the investigation of Diamond Blackfan anemia Hereditary hemoglobinopathy is a major cause of death and morbidity throughout the world This area has seen great advances in screening and antenatal diagnosis In Chapter 3 Old details protocols for the molecular diagnosis of most forms of hemoglobinopathy High quality accurate molecular testing on small amounts of material has been fundamental to progress in antenatal diagnostics The introduction to his comprehensive chapter includes a discussion of the general principles that underpin these studies In contrast to hemoglobinopathy severe hemophilia is uncommon

Paediatric Oncology W. Duncan, 2012-12-06 This publication brings together a number of papers presented at the Fourth Symposium on Clinical Oncology held at the Royal College of Radiologists London in February 1982 The subject of the meeting was paediatric oncology and its objective was to provide an up to date review of the management of children with leukaemia and the more common forms of childhood cancer Cancer in childhood is fortunately uncommon The descriptive statistics of these diseases in the United Kingdom and in many other countries from which data are available are presented in some detail Some remarkable differences in the incidence of the leukaemias for example are recorded throughout the world Further studies of the reasons for such differences hopefully may provide some insight into the causation of these diseases The leukaemias represent the most common form of neoplasia recorded in the Manchester Children's Tumour Registry accounting for almost one third of all childhood cancers Acute lymphoblastic leukaemia is the most common type of leukaemia in children in all countries for which we have adequate data with the exception of Japan A masterful review of the achievements in the management of acute lymphoblastic leukaemia is given by Professor R M Hardisty Colour Atlas of Paediatric Haematology Ian M.
