Visiting with the Ancestors Laura Peers, Alison K. Brown, 2016-09-29 In 2010 five magnificent Blackfoot shirts now owned by the University of Oxford's Pitt Rivers Museum were brought to Alberta to be exhibited at the Glenbow Museum in Calgary and the Galt Museum in Lethbridge The shirts had not returned to Blackfoot territory since 1841 when officers of the Hudson's Bay Company acquired them The shirts were later transported to England where they had remained ever since Exhibiting the shirts at the museums was however only one part of the project undertaken by Laura Peers and Alison Brown Prior to the installation of the exhibits groups of Blackfoot people hundreds altogether participated in special handling sessions in which they were able to touch the shirts and examine them up close The shirts some painted with mineral pigments and adorned with porcupine quillwork others decorated with locks of human and horse hair took the breath away of those who saw smelled and touched them Long dormant memories were awakened and many of the participants described a powerful sense of connection and familiarity with the shirts which still house the spirit of the ancestors who wore them In the pages of this beautifully illustrated volume is the story of an effort to build a bridge between museums and source communities in hopes of establishing stronger more sustaining relationships between the two and spurring change in prevailing museum policies Negotiating the tension between a museum's institutional protocol and Blackfoot cultural protocol was challenging but the experience described both by the authors and by Blackfoot contributors to the volume was transformative Museums seek to preserve objects for posterity This volume demonstrates that the emotional and spiritual power of objects does not vanish with the death of those who created them For Blackfoot people today these shirts are a living presence one that evokes a sense of continuity and inspires pride in Blackfoot cultural heritage

 Bryan C. Rindfleisch, 2021-07-28 In Brothers of Coweta Bryan C Rindfleisch explores how family and clan served as the structural foundation of the Muscogee Creek Indian world through the lens of two brothers who emerged from the historical shadows to shape the forces of empire colonialism and revolution that transformed the American South during the eighteenth century Although much of the historical record left by European settlers was fairly robust it included little about Indigenous people and even less about their kinship clan and familial dynamics However European authorities imperial agents merchants and a host of other individuals left a surprising paper trail when it came to two brothers Sempoyaffee and Escotchaby of Coweta located in what is now central Georgia Though fleeting their appearances in the archival record offer a glimpse of their extensive kinship connections and the ways in which family and clan propelled them into their influential roles negotiating with Europeans As the brothers navigated the politics of empire they pursued distinct family agendas that at times clashed with the interests of Europeans and other Muscogee leaders Despite their limitations Rindfleisch argues that these archives reveal how specific Indigenous families negotiated and even subverted empire building and colonialism in early America Through careful examination he demonstrates how historians of early and Native America can move past the limitations of the archives to rearticulate the familial and clan dynamics of the Muscogee world The Good, The Bad and The Ugly - 175+ Western Novels & Short Stories in One Edition Mark Twain, James Fenimore Cooper, Max Brand, James Oliver Curwood, B.
