

The background of the slide is a painting of a desert landscape. In the foreground, there are several large, rounded, dark-colored objects, possibly cacti or rocks, with some showing small, circular openings. A long, thin, light-colored object, possibly a stick or a branch, lies horizontally across the middle ground. In the background, there is a cluster of small, simple buildings with flat roofs, some of which are yellow and others are dark. The buildings are situated in a valley. Behind the buildings, there are dark, jagged mountains under a dark, cloudy sky. The overall style of the painting is somewhat abstract and expressive, with visible brushstrokes and a muted color palette.

Boehme,2016-02-17 Artists and filmmakers in the early twentieth century reshaped our vision of the American West In particular the Taos Society of Artists and the California based artist Maynard Dixon departed from the legendary depiction of the Wild West and fostered new images or brands for western art This volume illustrated with more than 150 images examines select paintings and films to demonstrate how these artists both enhanced and contradicted earlier representations of the West Prior to this period American art tended to portray the West as a wild frontier with untamed lands and peoples Renowned artists such as Henry Farny and Frederic Remington set their work in the past invoking an environment immersed in conflict and violence This trademark perspective began to change however when artists enamored with the Southwest stamped a new imprint on their paintings The contributors to this volume illuminate the complex ways in which early twentieth century artists as well as filmmakers evoked a southwestern environment not just suspended in time but also permanent rather than transient Yet as the authors also reveal these artists were not entirely immune to the siren call of the vanishing West and their portrayal of peaceful yet exotic Native Americans was an expansion rather than a dismissal of earlier tropes Both brands cast a romantic spell on the West and both have been seared into public consciousness Branding the American West is published in association with the Brigham Young University Museum of Art Provo Utah and the Stark Museum of Art Orange Texas The American West in Bronze, 1850-1925 Thayer Tolles, Thomas B. Smith, 2013-01-14 The American West in Bronze 1850 1925 is the first full scale exhibition to explore the aesthetic and cultural impulses behind the creation of statuettes with American western themes which have been so popular with audiences then and now Both the exhibition and this accompanying catalogue offer a fresh look at the multifaceted roles played by these sculptors in creating three dimensional interpretations of western life whether based on historical fact mythologized fiction or most often something in between Examples by such archetypal representatives of the West as Frederic Remington and Charles M Russell are complemented by the work of sculptors such as James Earle Fraser and Paul Manship who contributed to the popularity of the American bronze statuette even though their western subjects were less frequent Publisher s description Ernest L.
