State Immunity and Cultural Objects on Loan Nout van Woudenberg, 2012-03-23 Cultural objects have been on the move for a long time Yet there has been no comprehensive survey to date of the current state of affairs with regard to immunity from seizure of foreign cultural objects belonging to foreign States that are on loan for temporary exhibition This study fills that gap by examining whether there is any rule of customary international law stipulating that such cultural objects are immune from seizure or whether such a rule is emerging It also examines relevant State practice and the reasons behind it This volume thus provides greater clarity and legal certainty in the field of lending cultural State property and should be of use both to States and to cultural institutions

Catalogue of the Harvard University Fine Arts Library, the Fogg Art Museum Harvard University. Fine Arts Library, 1971 Cultural Heritage, Ethics and the Military Peter G. Stone, 2011 The world reacted with horror to the images of the looting of the National Museum in Iraq in 2003 closely followed by other museums and then largely unchecked or archaeological sites across the country This outcome had been predicted by many archaeologists with some offering to work directly with the military to identify museums and sites to be avoided and protected However this work has since been heavily criticised by others working in the field who claim that such collaboration lent a legitimacy to the invasion It has therefore served to focus on the broader issue of whether archaeologists and other cultural heritage experts should ever work with the military and if so under what guidelines and strictures The essays in this book drawn from a series of international conferences and seminars on the debate provide an historical background to the ethical issues facing cultural heritage experts and place them in a wider context Publisher s website Art and Cultural Heritage Barbara T.
