Canada's Residential Schools: The History, Part 1, Origins to 1939 Commission de vérité et réconciliation du Canada, 2016-01-01 Between 1867 and 2000 the Canadian government sent over 150 000 Aboriginal children to residential schools across the country Government officials and missionaries agreed that in order to civilize and Christianize Aboriginal children it was necessary to separate them from their parents and their home communities For children life in these schools was lonely and alien Discipline was harsh and daily life was highly regimented Aboriginal languages and cultures were denigrated and suppressed Education and technical training too often gave way to the drudgery of doing the chores necessary to make the schools self sustaining Child neglect was institutionalized and the lack of supervision created situations where students were prey to sexual and physical abusers Legal action by the schools former students led to the creation of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada in 2008 The product of over six years of research the Commission s final report outlines the history and legacy of the schools and charts a pathway towards reconciliation Canada s Residential Schools The History Part 1 Origins to 1939 places Canada s residential school system in the historical context of European campaigns to colonize and convert Indigenous people throughout the world In post Confederation Canada the government adopted what amounted to a policy of cultural genocide suppressing spiritual practices disrupting traditional economies and imposing new forms of government Residential schooling quickly became a central element in this policy The destructive intent of the schools was compounded by chronic underfunding and ongoing conflict between the federal government and the church missionary societies that had been given responsibility for their day to day operation A failure of leadership and resources meant that the schools failed to control the tuberculosis crisis that gripped the schools for much of this period Alarmed by high death rates Aboriginal parents often refused to send their children to the schools leading the government adopt ever more coercive attendance regulations While parents became subject to ever more punitive regulations the government did little to regulate discipline diet fire safety or sanitation at the schools By the period s end the government was presiding over a nation wide series of firetraps that had no clear educational goals and were economically dependent on the unpaid labour of underfed and often sickly children

Pakân : Cree Grade 5. Activity Book Northland School Division No. 61 (Peace River, Alta.), 1998 My Genealogy Walter K. Miles, 1978 Broken Treaties Jill St. Germain, 2009-06-01 Broken Treaties is a comparative assessment of Indian treaty negotiation and implementation focusing on the first decade following the United States Lakota Treaty of 1868 and Treaty Six between Canada and the Plains Cree 1876 Jill St Germain argues that the broken treaties label imposed by nineteenth century observers and perpetuated in the historical literature has obscured the implementation experience of both Native and non Native participants and distorted our understanding of the relationships between them As a result historians have ignored the role of the Treaty of 1868 as the instrument through which the United States and the Lakotas mediated the cultural divide separating them in the period between 1868 and 1875 In discounting the treaty historians have also failed to appreciate the broader context of U S politics which undermined a treaty solution to the Black Hills crisis in 1876 In Canada on the other hand the broken treaties tradition has obscured the distinctly different understanding of Treaty Six held by Canada and the Plains Cree The inability of either party to appreciate the other s position fostered the damaging misunderstanding that culminated in the Northwest Rebellion of 1885 In the first critical assessment of the implementation of these treaties Broken Treaties restores Indian treaties to a central position in the investigation of Native non Native relations in the United States and Canada Alberta-Montana Discovery Guide Alberta-Montana Heritage Partnership,1997 Alberta and Montana have much to offer the modern day explorer world class museums parks set in spectacular natural surroundings and historic sites that bring the past to life This indispensable guide includes over 300 color photographs descriptions easy to follow directions and contact information for nearly 500 attractions across Alberta and Montana
