Pros And Cons Of International Weapons Procurement Collaboration:

Pros and Cons of International Weapons Procurement Collaboration Mark A. Lorell, Julia Lowell, 1995 Provides insights on possible results of international collaboration on weapons procurement programs The Law of Collaborative Defence Procurement in the European Union Baudouin Heuninckx, 2017 The book examines and makes proposals for improving the law and management of collaborative defence procurement programmes and provides practical examples to enhance efficiency of cooperation between states Covering a broad scope of legal issues it contains invaluable information for practitioners policy makers and academics aiming to analyse or improve these projects Assessment of Impediments to Interagency Collaboration on Space and Earth Science Missions National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Space Studies Board, Committee on Assessment of Impediments to Interagency Cooperation on Space and Earth Science Missions, 2011-05-31 Through an examination of case studies agency briefings and existing reports and drawing on personal knowledge and direct experience the Committee on Assessment of Impediments to Interagency Cooperation on Space and Earth Science Missions found that candidate projects for multiagency collaboration in the development and implementation of Earth observing or space science missions are often intrinsically complex and therefore costly and that a multiagency approach to developing these missions typically results in additional complexity and cost Advocates of collaboration have sometimes underestimated the difficulties and associated costs and risks of dividing responsibility and accountability between two or more partners they also discount the possibility that collaboration will increase the risk in meeting performance objectives This committee's principal recommendation is that agencies should conduct Earth and space science projects independently unless It is judged that cooperation will result in significant added scientific value to the project over what could be achieved by a single agency alone or Unique capabilities reside within one agency that are necessary for the mission success of a project managed by another agency or The project is intended to transfer from research to operations necessitating a change in responsibility from one agency to another during the project or There are other compelling reasons to pursue collaboration for example a desire to build capacity at one of the cooperating agencies Even when the total project cost may increase parties may still find collaboration attractive if their share of a mission is more affordable than funding it alone In these cases alternatives to interdependent reliance on another government agency should be considered For example agencies may find that buying services from another agency or pursuing interagency coordination of spaceflight data collection is preferable to fully interdependent cooperation

Butler, 2017-03-02 A comparative analysis of the role of EU and US defence procurement regulation as a barrier to transatlantic defence trade Emerging Strategies in Defense Acquisitions and Military Procurement Burgess, Kevin, Antill, Peter, 2016-07-22 Military and defense organizations are a vital component to any nation In order to maintain the standards of these sectors new procedures and practices must be implemented

European Defence Decision-Making Antonio Calcara,2020-03-02 This book comparatively examines the preferences of four key arms producing states towards European joint armaments programmes The European defence market is characterised by a mixture of inter state competition and European cooperation and this work assesses why countries sometimes decide to cooperate with their partners while in other instances they refrain from doing so In order to shed light on this empirical puzzle the book focuses on state defence industry relations in the four major European arms producers France Germany Italy and the UK The main argument is that the public or private governance of industrial suppliers and market size are the two decisive variables that explain the simultaneous presence of cooperation and competition in European defence procurement Specifically it argues that in public governance ecosystems arms industries are able to capture the state s decision making processes to their own advantage In private governance ecosystems the state is relatively autonomous from defence industry s influence and able to pursue larger macro economic and military benefits Moreover the strategy pursued by governments and defence firms is decisively shaped by market size because of its importance in determining the relative costs and benefits of collaborative arrangements This book will be of much interest to students of EU policy defence studies European politics and International Relations

the European Union Kees van der Pijl, 2021-01-19 From the establishment of NATO in 1949 Western Europe has been under Anglo American tutelage in military and security matters Several countries most notably France and since reunification Germany have experienced this as a hindrance to the pursuit of their particular interests Since 2008 the European Commission has actively joined the quest for strategic autonomy within NATO The elections of Donald Trump and Emmanuel Macron in 2016 further widened the Atlantic rift while the COVID 19 crisis with its colossal economic costs has in turn exacerbated the already worsening geopolitical tensions with states like Russia and China With chapters on the politics and economics of European defence on France Germany and Russia the EU's energy provision the militarization of migration control and the restructuring of the transatlantic bond this volume offers an up to date critical assessment of the militarization of European integration written by established scholars in the fields of international relations and security studies Interoperability of U.S. and NATO Allied Air Forces Eric Victor Larson, 2003

Carayannis,2017-11-16 This book explores European security and defense R D policy unveiling the strategic industrial institutional and ideational sources of the European Commission s military research initiative Starting from a well defined empirical epicentre the rise of non civilian R D priorities in the European Union this book covers interrelated themes and topics such as approaches to arms production and R D collaboration relationships between European R D related institutions technology and research foundations of European security policy past and present European armament collaborations transatlantic R D collaboration the militarization of border security Divided into 5 sections the enclosed chapters explore the EU technology and innovation policy in regards to security industrial competitiveness and military capabilities The terrorist attacks in the US on September 11 2001 provided a window of opportunity for the introduction of security as a distinct European R D priority In fact since 2002 the Preparatory Action for Security Research PASR has funded 45 million euros to 39 research consortia to conduct security R D While the idea of pooling defense research efforts and programmes in Europe is not new the establishment of institutions like the European Defense Agency EDA are a major step into institutionalizing European agencies involvement in supporting defense technology research It is against this backdrop of policy developments that this book is positioned in addition to addressing some of the political economic industrial and philosophical questions that arise Featuring contributions from a variety of academic fields and industries this book will be of interest to scholars researchers students and policy makers in the fields of security policy international relations innovation European studies and military studies Essays on Civil-military Relations, Military-industrial Relations, Weapon Procurement, and International Relations Glen Segell,1997 and International Relations Glen Segell,1998 Arms Proliferation Policy Marcy Agmon,1996 A 1995 Presidential Executive Order established a board to advise the president on implementing a policy on conventional nonnuclear arms and technology transfer The board was to study the factors that contribute to the proliferation of strategic and advanced conventional military weapons and technology and the policy options the United States might use to inhibit such proliferation Shrinking federal budgets have made exports of all kinds including weapons an attractive means of shoring up a country s industrial base The heart of the problem is striking a balance between the preservation of military production and a healthy industrial base on the one hand and restraining exports that proliferate advanced weapons Foreign policy national security and economic interests that are served by the approval or denial of weapons sales can be compelling but often pull in different directions Striking the right balance among cross cutting priorities is the key to an effective weapons transfer policy This report discusses trends in the international arms markets how transfers of weapons and technology are controlled the economics of arms exports and the relationship between arms exports and a country s economy Congressional Record United States.
