New Advances in Legal Translation and Interpreting Junfeng Zhao, Defeng Li, Victoria Lai Cheng Lei, 2023-03-02

This book describes interdisciplinary exploration of matters related to the translation and interpreting of legal texts

Translation of legal texts has grown exponentially since the beginning of the new millennium in response to the fast-increasing volume of international trade and business, as well as all sorts of other transnational activities in a myriad of spheres

International trade demands translation of trade laws and business contracts

Immigration leads to rise in court interpreting services, and countries may seek to enhance their international influence through translating and making known to the world their laws and other legal documents

These legal translation activities occurred mostly between languages officially used in international or regional organizations such as the United Nations and the European Union, and between the languages of major countries who exert or seek influence on international economy and law

On the other hand, rapid advances in computer technology and artificial intelligence in recent years have also brought about changes in the practices of legal translation

With changes also come problems in both theory and practice that merit our immediate attention This edited volume highlights the newest developments in the theory practice and training of legal translation with contributions from international leading researchers in this area It will be a standard reference for anyone who is to embark on research and practice of legal translation in the twenty first century It is also adaptable as teaching materials for translation and interpreting training Chapter Translating Legal Terms at International Organisations Do Institutional Term Banks Meet Translators Needs is available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4 0 International License via link springer com

Corpora in Interpreting Studies Andrew K.F. Cheung, Kanglong Liu, Riccardo Moratto, 2023-12-01 Cheung Liu Moratto and their contributors examine how corpora can be effectively harnessed to benefit interpreting practice and research in East Asian settings In comparison to the achievements made in the field of corpus based translation studies the use of corpora in interpreting is not comparable in terms of scope methods and agenda One of the predicaments that hampers this line of inquiry is the lack of systematic corpora to document spoken language This issue is even more pronounced when dealing with East Asian languages such as Chinese Japanese and Korean which are typologically different from European languages As language plays a pivotal role in interpreting research the use of corpora in interpreting within East Asian contexts has its own distinct characteristics as well as methodological constraints and concerns However it also generates new insights and findings that can significantly advance this research field A valuable resource for scholars of scholars focusing on corpus interpreting particularly those dealing with East Asian languages Clinical Management of Speech Sound Disorders Carol Koch,2018-01-12 Clinical Management of Speech Sound Disorders A Case Based Approach meets the need of speech language pathology instructors who work with children who demonstrate articulation and phonological disorders This text presents an overview of case based learning as an introductory chapter and the application in the discipline of speech language pathology and focus on various evidence based approaches for treating children with speech sound disorders
