Prostitution And Feminism Towards A Politics Of Feeling:

Prostitution and Feminism Maggie O'Neill, 2013-06-25 Feminists have long differed in their view of prostitution While some regard it as a classic form of exploitation and degradation others offer a more sympathetic interpretation of women's involvement in the sex industry In this important new book Maggie O'Neill seeks to explore the theoretical debates on prostitution and the relevance of these to the everyday lived experiences of women working on the streets Based upon her own ethnographic research defined as ethno mimesis the author seeks to undermine and demystify stereotypical images of prostitutes She explores the narratives offered by prostitutes themselves as well as other forms of their representation in film art and photography and shows how these various mediums may be used to shed light on the socio economic processes and structures which lead women into prostitution These personal accounts produce what O'Neill refers to as a politics of feeling which she argues may be used to transform attitudes policy and practice in relation to female prostitution By relating these individual experiences to critical feminist theory the book deepens our understanding of the phenomenon of prostitution in contemporary society The book will be of particular interest to students and scholars in gender studies feminist theory and sociology

Feminism, Prostitution and the State Eilis Ward, Gillian Wylie, 2017-02-17 This edited volume focuses on charting the rise of neo abolitionism and offering a critique of the idea its logics and consequences A model of state policy which aims to abolish prostitution through legislation Neo abolitionism criminalises the buyer of sex but not the seller It is currently law in Sweden and other Nordic states and dominates the framing of policy debates in many other Western liberal contexts Pressure for adoption of this policy has come from radical feminists who understand prostitution and sex trafficking as a form of violence against women This volume argues that this convergence between radical feminism and state's interests arises from the emergence of on the one hand governance feminism which seeks to have its ideals implemented through top down sovereigntist means and on the other hand state's interests in legitimising stricter border controls and law enforcement responses in relation to transnational organised criminality illegal migration and security Based around a series of country case studies each chapter will explore the politics surrounding the emergence of neo abolitionism and its trajectory through those polities whether the paradigm has been adopted rejected or is still under debate The volume will be of great interest to students and scholars of Social and Public Policy Gender and Women's Studies Politics and International Relations and Critical Legal Studies Criminology

Prostitution Research in Context Marlene Spanger, May-Len Skilbrei, 2017-03-16 The starting point for this book is the question of how we research sex for sale and the implications of the choices we make in terms of epistemology and ethics Which dilemmas and ethical aspects need to be taken into account when producing qualitative data within a highly politicised and moral infected realm These two questions are exactly what Spanger and Skilbrei aim to unpack in this unusual interdisciplinary methodology book Prostitution Research in Context The book offers contributions from a number of scholars who based on their reflections on their own research practice and the existing knowledge field discuss ongoing methodological issues and challenges representative of international research on sex for sale. Some chapters deal explicitly with methodological dilemmas in research; others thematise the encounter between prostitution research and general texts on epistemology. Other chapters again actively engage with the ethical dilemmas that research on the topic of sex for sale can entail. The authors represent different disciplines but share an interest in engaging in reflexive research practices informed by feminism and feminist epistemologies. An authoritative contribution to the field, this innovative volume will appeal to international scholars and students from across the social sciences and humanities in areas such as sociology, anthropology, criminology, media studies, feminist studies, human geography and history. Sex Work

Matters Melissa Hope Ditmore, Antonia Levy, Alys Willman, 2013-04-04. Sex Work Matters brings together sex workers, scholars and activists to present pioneering essays on the economics and sociology of sex work. From insights by sex workers on how they handle money, intimate relationships and daily harassment by the police to the experience of male and transgender sex work, this fascinating and original book offers new theoretical frameworks for understanding the sex industry. The result is a vital new contribution to sex worker rights that explores the topic in new ways, especially its cultural, economic and political dimensions. Readers weary of the sensational and often salacious treatment of the sex industry in the media and literature will find Sex Work Matters refreshing. Emotions and Crime Michael Hviid Jacobsen, Sandra Walklate, 2019-06-11. In spite of the fact that crime is an emotive topic, the question of emotion has been largely overlooked in criminological research, which has tended instead to examine criminal conduct in terms of structural background variables or rational decision making. Building on research into emotions within sociology, this book seeks to show how criminologists can in fact take emotions seriously and why criminology needs to begin considering emotions as a central element of its theoretical, conceptual and methodological apparatus. Thematically organised and presenting both empirical and theoretical studies, Emotions and Crime pays attention to the different emotional dimensions of crime, victimhood, the criminal justice system, the practice of criminological research and the discipline of criminology. Bringing together the work of an international team of authors and discussing research into violence, punishment, gender, imprisonment and mass atrocity, this volume shows how crime and emotions are inextricably connected and illustrates both the hidden and pervasive role of emotions in criminological work. Student Sex Work Debbie Jones, Teela Sanders, 2022-09-27. This book provides a contemporary collection of key works that chart new and ongoing terrain on student sex work. It brings together experienced researchers, activists, practitioners, early career researchers and those with lived experience of doing sex work in the university setting from across the globe. The book addresses three core areas: Activism, Ideology and Exclusion, Motivations and Experiences, and University Policy, Practice and Service Delivery. This collection represents significant theoretical, methodological and policy and practice contributions within sex work studies. These new perspectives contribute to our existing knowledge, introduce new directions for scholarship and prompt new and exciting questions about how higher education students participation in sex work can be researched understood and responded to in an ethical non stigmatising approach The book will be of interest to students researchers and service providers and given the interdisciplinary nature of the chapters the book has a cross disciplinary appeal Listening to Olivia Jody Raphael,2004-04-22 The harrowing story of a woman s descent into prostitution and addiction the remarkable tale of her recovery and an expos of the global trafficking industry Migration, Agency and Citizenship in Sex Trafficking R. Andrijasevic,2010-11-03 Providing a new perspective on migration and sex work in Europe this book is based on interviews with migrant women in the sex sector It brings together issues of migration labour and political subjectivity in order to refocus scholarly and policy agenda away from sex slavery and organized crime towards agency and citizenship Magdalene House Sarah VanHooser Suiter,2012 Women come to Magdalene House in Nashville when they are ready to leave the streets They live together unsupervised and free of charge for two years During that time the women are given time space and the resources they need to heal from what have often been lifelong experiences with suffering Of the twenty two women now in residence 80 percent have a diagnosed mental illness other than addiction 40 percent are receiving treatment for hepatitis C and one third are HIV positive However the story of the Magdalene community is not about these statistics but about the stories the women tell They say they thrive in the community because it is a place where they are free to be themselves safe to give and receive love and free to speak their truth even to complain sometimes about how their storytelling is exploited for the good of the community A Place about Mercy is a participant observation account of the history of this remarkable community founded in 1997 its structure its Thistle Farms beauty products operation and Reverend Becca Stevens s communal and spiritual vision The book is finally about what it means to walk the path of healing with a group of unlikely women as guide Magdalene House was the subject of a multiple part documentary on National Public Radio Sex Work and Human Dignity Stewart Cunningham,2020-11-02 The notion of human dignity is frequently yet enigmatically invoked in legal and political debates on sex work where many people use it without much elaboration on exactly what they mean by it Sex Work and Human Dignity Law Politics and Discourse sheds light on this enigma by exploring how dignity based discourses are used by those who write and talk about prostitution and also what role these discourses may play in shaping wider cultural understandings of sex work and sex workers The book draws on political discourse theory and is international in its scope with analysis of legal cases textual sources and empirical data gathered through interviews with activists from several different countries in the Global North and South The book traces how the concept of dignity is used in a range of legal and political discourses on sex work and ultimately asks to what extent dignity based discourses help to advance or hinder sex workers social inclusion This book will appeal to students and researchers interested in sex work and feminism as well as those who study human dignity Its interdisciplinary nature means it will appeal to those working in a range of disciplines including law sociology philosophy and political theory Resisting Racism and Xenophobia Faye V. Harrison,2005-09-08 Harrison s collection of essays focuses on the intersections of race gender sexuality class and ethno nation that influence the dynamics of human rights conflicts in different parts of the world The authors investigate human rights conflicts in Europe the Americas Asia Africa and Australia and reflect upon the political concerns and anxieties that have taken center stage since the catastrophe of 9 11 The contributors are an internationally diverse group of anthropologists and human rights activists concerned with global culturally diverse gendered experiences This book will be valuable to instructors and applied professionals in anthropology gender studies ethnic studies and international human rights

Theorizing Intersectionality and Sexuality Y. Taylor,S. Hines,M. Casey,2010-11-24 This book re examines political conceptual and methodological concerns of intersectionality bringing these into conversation with sexuality studies It explores sexual identifications politics and inequalities as these disconnect across time and place and are re constituted in relation to class disability ethnicity gender and age

Policing Sex Paul Johnson,Paul James Johnson,Derek Dalton,2012 This collection focuses attention on an important but academically neglected area of contemporary operational policing the regulation of consensual sexual practices Despite the high level public visibility of and debate about policing in relation to violent and abusive sexual crimes from child sexual abuse to adult rape very little public or scholarly attention is paid to the policing of consensual sexual practices in contemporary societies Whilst sexual life is commonly understood to be a matter of private life that is beyond formal social control this book shows that policing is implicated in the regulation of a wide range of consensual sexual practices This book brings together a well known and respected group of academics from a range of disciplines to explore the role of the police in shaping the boundaries of that aspect of our lives that we imagine to be most intimate and most our own The volume presents a snap shot of policing in respect of a number of diverse areas such as public sex pornography and sex work and considers how sexual orientation structures police responses to them The authors critically examine how policing is implicated in the social moral and political landscape of sex and contrary to the established rhetoric of politicians and criminal justice practitioners continues to intervene in the private lives of citizens It is essential supplementary reading for courses in criminology law policing sociology of deviance gender and sexuality and cultural studies

Sex Work and Hate Crime Rosie Campbell,Teela Sanders,2021-11-09 This book brings together literature empirical research findings from two projects and policy analysis to examine how some forces in England have adopted the approach of treating crimes against sex workers as hate crimes This book identifies some of the benefits of the hate crime approach to crimes against sex workers both operationally and for some of the victims of crime The authors argue that the hate crime approach should not be seen as an alternative to decriminalisation of sex work but can provide a pathway to achieving more sensitive but robust policing of crimes against sex workers and support in accessing justice through the criminal justice system They also examine the broader context of hate crime policy and scholarship as they debate the relevance problems and merits of the sex work hate crime model The book provides another dimension to current theoretical and policy debates about widening definitions and law around hate crime to include other groups beyond existing protected characteristics

East Asian Sexualities Stevi Jackson, Jieyu Liu, Juhyun Woo, 2013-07-18 This book paints a vivid picture of women's active involvement in reshaping intimate and public sexual life in East Asia. In bringing together exciting new feminist research on sexuality from East Asia and making it available to a wider audience, East Asian Sexualities unsettles stereotypes, rectifies lack of awareness and demonstrates that East Asia matters. The chapters address the diversity and variety of everyday sexual lives and sexual politics in China, Hong Kong, Taiwan, Korea, and Japan. They range from workplace sexual cultures, transnational sexual relations, the conditions of sex work, and the emergence of new sexual desires, cultures, and movements. The contributors highlight the gendered and sexual consequences of globalization and rapid social change. In doing so, they engage with western debates on late modernity while also exploring the contested understandings of modernization and westernization in the East. This is a collection which illuminates the local situations in which women's sexual lives are lived and offers fresh perspectives on global issues.

Sex as Crime? Gayle Letherby, Kate Williams, Philip Birch, Maureen E. Cain, 2013-05-13 This book brings together chapters by academics, researchers, and practitioners to analyse how crimes such as sex work, domestic violence, and rape and sexual assault have risen up the Government agenda in recent years. For example, the Paying the Price consultation exercise on sex work in 2004 and recent legislation around sex crimes including the Sex Offences Act 2003. This is a multi-disciplinary, social scientific, pro-feminist collection which draws upon practice, empirical research, documentary analysis, and overviews of research in the areas of sex work and sexual violence. Within Sex as Crime there are two distinct sub-sections: Sex for Sale and Sex as Violence, but the broader and overriding link of sex as crime remains a paramount theme that spans the collection. Chapters include discussions of the impact of new regulations on street sex workers and of street sex work on community residents; the use of the internet by men who pay for sex and men who sell it; sexual violence and identity; sex crimes against children and protecting children online; and working with sex offenders. Other chapters explore reasons for such offending behaviour.

Bodies at Work Carol Wolkowitz, 2006-07-27 After reading this book, it will be more difficult to do the sociology of work and the sociology of the body in the absence of the other. In some quite exquisite ways, it throws down a challenge which practitioners in both fields will find difficult to ignore. Paul Stewart, former editor of Work, Employment and Society, University of the West of England. Bodies at Work provides the first full-length, accessible account of the body-work relation in contemporary western societies. Bringing together fields of sociology that have hitherto developed mainly along separate lines, the book demonstrates the relevance of concepts developed in the sociology of the body for enriching our understanding of changing patterns of work and employment. Bodies at Work begins by establishing key concerns in both the sociology of the body and the sociology of work. Drawing on existing research, the author proceeds to examine a wide range of employment sectors: industrial employment, customer relations, health practice, care work, the beauty industry, and sex work. The contribution of feminist theory and research is highlighted throughout and analyses of photographs help the reader conceptualise the changing nature of the body work relationship over time Bodies at Work helps readers think more clearly and creatively about how work relations shape bodily experience Red Light Labour Elya M. Durisin, Emily van der Meulen, Chris Bruckert, 2018-09-01 In 2013 the Supreme Court ruled in Canada v Bedford that key prostitution laws were unconstitutional The decision provoked wide interest but little new insight into sex work Red Light Labour addresses Canada's new legal regime regulating sex work through the analysis of past and present policy approaches and consideration of how laws and those who uphold them have constructed controlled and criminalized sex workers their clients and their workspaces This groundbreaking collection also offers nuanced interpretations of commercial sexual labour that foreground the personal perspectives of workers and activists The contributors highlight the struggle for civic and social inclusion by considering sex workers advocacy tactics successes and challenges Red Light Labour promotes social and economic justice within a sex work as labour framework This book is a timely intervention that showcases up to date legal policy and social analysis of sex work in Canada Body/State Jen Dickinson, 2016-04-08 Body State brings together original essays addressing various aspects of the evolving interaction between bodies and states While each essay has different empirical and or theoretical focus authors consider a number of overlapping themes to appreciate the state's engagement with and concern about bodies Divided into five parts the first part Bodies Modified and Divided considers how the production regulation policing and maintenance of borders physical social sexual political religious etc are used to enable or constrain the physical re shaping of the body Part two Capital Bodies extends the state's concern with the flows of bodies that make up the nation to consider how they are enrolled in the complex structures of capitalist exchange that form the basis for maintaining and contesting a set of relationships between states and markets Part three Deviance and Resistance examines both how states seek to discipline non normal bodies and appreciates the capacity of changes in the socio cultural meaning and nature of bodies to resist and or escape states Part four Sovereignty and Surveillance develops themes of deviancy and resistance by considering the impact of new technologies both on the intimate regulatory reach of states into and across bodies and on the nature of embodiment itself Finally Part five The Body Virtual examines the impact of new technologies and online spaces both on the intimate regulatory reach of states into and across bodies and on the nature of embodiment itself A varied collection of essays that address important and complex topics in a readable and creative way

On the Game Sophie Day, 2007-06-20 Winner of the Eileen Basker Prize and the Wellcome Medal for Anthropology as Applied to Medical Problems On the Game is an ethnographic account of prostitutes and prostitution Sophie Day has followed the lives of individual women over fifteen years and her book details their attempts to manage their lives against a backdrop of social disapproval The period was one of substantial change within the sex industry Through the lens of public health economics criminalisation and human rights Day explores how individual sex workers live in public and in private This offers a unique perspective on contemporary capitalist society that will be of interest both to a broad range of social scientists The author brings a unique perspective to her work as both an anthropologist and the founder of the renowned Praed Street Project set up in 1986 as a referral and support centre for London prostitutes
