Real World Diaries:

Voyeur Nation Clay Calvert, 2009-04-21 From 24 hour a day girl cam sites on the World Wide Web to trash talk television shows like Jerry Springer and reality television programs like Cops we've become a world of voyeurs. We like to watch others as their intimate moments, private facts, secrets, and dirty laundry are revealed. Voyeur Nation traces the evolution and forces driving what the author calls the voyeurism value. Calvert argues that although spectatorship and sensationalism are far from new phenomena today, a confluence of factors—legal, social, political, and technological—pushes voyeurism to the forefront of our image-based world. The First Amendment increasingly is called on to safeguard our right via new technologies and recording devices to peer into the innermost details of others' lives without fear of legal repercussion. But Calvert argues that the voyeurism value contradicts the value of discourse in democracy and First Amendment theory since voyeurism by its very nature involves merely watching without interacting or participating. It privileges watching and viewing media images over participating and interacting in democracy.

Docufictions Gary D. Rhodes, John Parris Springer, 2014-10-01 Through most of the 20th century the distinction between the fictional narrative film and the documentary was vigorously maintained. The documentary tradition developed side by side with but in the shadow of the more commercially successful feature film. In the latter part of the century, however, the two forms merged on occasion, and mockumentaries, fictional works in a documentary format, and docudramas, reality-based works in a fictional format, became part of the film and television landscape. The 18 essays here examine the relationships between narrative fiction films and documentary filmmaking, focusing on how each influenced the other and how the two were merged in such diverse films and shows as Citizen Kane, M A S H, This Is Spinal Tap, and Destination Moon. Topics include the docudrama in early cinema, the industrial film as faux documentary, the fear evoked in 1950s science fiction films, the selling of reality in mockumentaries and reality television, and documentary forms. The essays provide a foundation for significant rethinking of film history and criticism, offering the first significant discussion of two emerging and increasingly important genres.

RealWorld Evaluation Michael Bamberger, Jim Rugh, Linda Mabry, 2011-11-29 This book addresses the challenges of conducting program evaluations in real world contexts where evaluators and the agencies face budget and time constraints and where critical data is missing. The book is organized around a seven-step model developed by the authors, which has been tested and refined in workshops. Vignettes and case studies representing evaluations from a variety of geographic regions and sectors demonstrate adaptive possibilities for small projects with budgets of a few thousand dollars to large-scale long-term evaluations. The text incorporates quantitative, qualitative, and mixed-method designs, and this Second Edition reflects important developments in the field over the last five years.

guidance published by FDA in 2009 when using ePRO solutions Can fewer patients be exposed in a clinical trial as a result of improved data quality obtained using electronic diaries What type of solution should be used for certain patient populations and protocols and how can ePRO solutions be designed optimally to increase patient acceptability and compliance Bill Byrom and Brian Tiplady's ePro addresses all these issues reviews the new FDA guidance and provides a very contemporary view on this important subject
