Reason Truth And Theology In A Pragmatist Perspective:

Reason, Truth, and Theology in Pragmatist Perspective Paul D. Murray, 2004 In this work Paul Murray explores which style of rationality is most appropriate to Christian theology in the contemporary pluralist postfoundationalist postmodern context At its heart is a fresh consideration of the American pragmatist tradition focussing on the writings of Richard Rorty and Nicholas Rescher Where Rorty correctly diagnoses the failures of foundationalist objectivism Rescher's pragmatic idealism is presented as healing the ills in Rorty's own neo pragmatism The significant resonance between Rescher's view of rationality and Christian understanding of the trinity is explored In turn Donald MacKinnon's influential writings are presented as exemplifying just such an approach to theology Murray both articulates an enriched form of Christian postliberalism committed to receiving and learning from other traditions of thought and practice and probes the claim that the dynamics of human rationality can be expected to reflect the Trinitarian dynamics of God's being Paul Murray presents us here with an exhaustive and insightful study of recent pragmatic theory in which he sets up rhythms of healing and completion as well as interrogation particularly remarkable is his exploration of Christianity as the deep and in some sense final interlocutor of pragmatic tradition I strongly recommend this book Olivier Davis Professor of Christian Doctrine King's College London This is a mature wide ranging work that by uniting the intellectual and the practical carries both rational and ethical conviction It does equal justice to the classic teachings of Christianity and to the challenges to rethink them in dialogue with modern and postmodern approaches The result is a conception of Christianity both generously orthodox and deeply engaged with contemporary life and thought It is especially good to see the profound contribution of Donald MacKinnon understood and developed with such perception and relevance David F Ford Regius Professor of Divinity University of Cambridge Paul Murray is currently Lecturer in Systematic Theology within the Department of Theology at the University of Durham England He has previously held posts at St Cuthbert's Seminary Ushaw College Durham and Newman College of Higher Education Birmingham Essays of his exploring issues in philosophical theology science and theology and contemporary Roman Catholic theology have appeared in leading journals and edited collections This is his first monograph

Exchanges of Grace Natalie K. Watson, Stephen Burns, 2008 A unique international collection of contributions in honour built around the three themes central to understanding the work of Ann Loades Professor emerita of Durham University a well known and well liked figure in contemporary western theology Explorations in Ecclesiology and Ethnography Christian B. Scharen, Christian Scharen, 2012-11-16 In this book Christian Scharen and several other contributors explore empirical and theological understandings of the church Like the first volume in the Studies in Ecclesiology and Ethnography series Perspectives on ecclesiology and ethnography Pete Ward ed this second volume seeks to bridge the great divide between theological research and ethnography qualitative research Newman in the Story of Philosophy D. J. Pratt Morris-Chapman, 2021-07-01 Saint John Henry Newman is widely acknowledged to be an important theologian Despite this Newman commentators believe that his work has received little recognition by philosophers This book explores whether or not Newman's supposed philosophical isolation constitutes a misconception in Newman historiography First of all it does this by examining Newman's general philosophical reception over the last two centuries surveying a wide range of philosophical positions and philosophers from the many different branches of this discipline The book then focuses upon whether or not Newman has made a contribution to one specific philosophical position seldom given attention within Newman scholarship the particularist approach to epistemology In its investigations into this and the other more general dimension of Newman's philosophical reception the book offers an historical re evaluation of Newman's philosophical legacy Grammars of Faith P. F. Bloemendaal, 2006 D Z Phillips is a leading figure in advocating a Wittgensteinian approach to the philosophical study of religion His writings exert an important influence on contemporary philosophy of religion giving a new direction to the philosophical discussion of religious belief and practice Although his work has prompted much often critical comment a thorough investigation has not been forthcoming Grammars of Faith fills that gap The book pays close attention to Wittgenstein's own remarks on religious belief arranging them against the background of his broader philosophical methodology as well as to the efforts of the early Wittgensteinians at providing a more comprehensive Wittgensteinian philosophy of religion Central to this study are Phillips's understanding of philosophical enquiry as a form of contemplation and his descriptive accounts of religious belief By means of a careful and methodical examination of Phillips's oeuvre the study seeks to present a fair assessment of Phillips's position showing not only its weaknesses but also its strength The Routledge Companion to the Practice of Christian Theology Mike Higon, Jim Fodor, 2015-03-24 This Companion introduces readers to the practice of Christian theology covering what theologians do why they do it and what steps readers can take in order to become theological practitioners themselves The volume aims to capture the variety of practices involved in doing theology highlighting the virtues that guide them and the responsibilities that shape them It also shows that the description of these practices virtues and responsibilities is itself theological what Christian theologians do is shaped by the wider practices and beliefs of Christianity Written by a team of leading theologians the Companion provides a unique resource for students and scholars of theology alike Receptive Ecumenism and the Call to Catholic Learning Paul Murray, 2010-05-06

This volume proposes a fresh strategy for ecumenical engagement Receptive Ecumenism that is fitted to the challenges of the contemporary context and has already been internationally recognised as making a distinctive and important new contribution to ecumenical thought and practice Beyond this the volume tests and illustrates this proposal by examining what Roman Catholicism in particular might fruitfully learn from its ecumenical others Challenging the tendency for ecumenical studies to ask whether explicitly or implicitly What do our others need to learn from us this volume presents a radical challenge to see ecumenism move forward into action by highlighting the opposite question What can we learn with integrity from our others This approach is not simply ecumenism as shared mission or ecumenism as problem solving and incremental agreement but ecumenism as a vital long term programme of individual communal and structural conversion driven like the Gospel that inspires it by the promise of conversion into greater life and flourishing The aim is for the Christian traditions to become more not less than they currently are by learning from or receiving of each other's gifts The 32 original essays that have been written for this unique volume explore these issues from a wide variety of denominational and disciplinary perspectives drawing together ecclesialogists professional ecumenists sociologists psychologists and organizational experts

Beyond Fideism Olli-Pekka Vainio, 2016-04-15 After the postmodern turn every tradition seeks the right to have their own rules of rational discourse The crucial question is are there ways to communicate between the traditions so that the traditions do not need to give up their identities in order to take part in conversation Vainio examines the basic assumptions behind well known types of Christian theology and seeks ways in which they might interact with one other and with other non Christian traditions without capitulation of their identities Vainio claims that there are religious identities that can be negotiated and communicated and that there are ecclesiastical doctrines which can be meaningfully discussed among churches This book explores three key areas analysis of the uses of fideism within classical Christian theology clarification of different types of theological method that seek to express the task of theology in contemporary setting an explanation of the contours of religious identity and rationality which takes seriously both classical Christian identity and pluralistic contexts where most of the Christian communities dwell nowadays The proposal for negotiability of Christian identity draws together ideas from among others virtue epistemology reformed epistemology communitarianism and feminist sensibilities

For the Good of the Church Gabrielle Thomas, 2021-02-26 What do we need to learn and receive from the other to help us address challenges or wounds in our own tradition That is the key question asked in what has come to be known as receptive ecumenism And nowhere is this question more pressing and pertinent than in women's experiences within the church Based on qualitative research from five focus groups For the Good of the Church expose the difficulties women face when they work in a church sexism unfulfilled vocation and abuse of power and privilege as well as the wide range of gifts and skills which women bring in light of these The second part of the book continues to draw on the particular wounds and gifts which arise in the focus groups Specific case studies are used to identify gifts of theology practice experience vocation and power Against negative prognoses of an ecumenical winter Gabrielle Thomas reveals how radically different theological and ecclesiological perspectives can be a space for learning and receiving gifts for the well being of the whole Church
