Rabid Dogs In The East:

Public Health Reports, 1965 The African Wild Dog Joshua Ross Ginsberg, David Whyte Macdonald, IUCN/SSC Candid Specialist Group, 1997 Over the last 30 years the African wild dog population has declined dramatically Dogs have disappeared from 25 of the 39 countries where they were previously found and only 6 populations are believed to number more than 100 Today it is believed that only between 3 000 5 500 dogs remain in 600 1 000 packs with most to be found in eastern and southern Africa The dramatic reduction in their population is attributed to a number of factors including human population growth and activities deterioration of habitat and contact with domestic dogs and their diseases This Action Plan explores some of the reasons behind their disappearance and provides a number of proposed solutions split into 3 priority areas ranging from habitat management and conservation to monitoring domestic dogs Rabies in Man and Animals Sudhi Ranjan Garg, 2013-10-23 Rabies is the deadliest zoonotic disease that threatens humans and animals on all continents except Antarctica Asia and Africa are worst affected as more than 95 per cent of rabies associated human deaths occur in these regions India alone bears about 36 per cent of the global human rabies burden Dogs are the main transmitters of rabies that potentially threaten over 3 billion people in Asia and Africa Many developed nations have been able to successfully control dog rabies but continue to face the risk from wildlife including bats Bat rabies is responsible for most human rabies deaths in the United States of America and Canada but has emerged as a public health threat in Australia Latin America and Western Europe as well Despite being vaccine preventable rabies continues to haunt the mankind Poor resources is a major constraint but the factors like low priority attributed to rabies misconceptions in the community about the disease and unsystematic approach for its prevention and control are also responsible for the grim situation Targets have been set for elimination of human and dog rabies in all Latin American countries by 2015 and of human rabies transmitted by dogs in South East Asia by 2020 However the myths prevailing among the people together with inadequate knowledge of the health professionals veterinarians and the civic body staff about the rabies prevention and control strategies might make the task very difficult This book comprising eight chapters elaborates the causation of rabies in man and animals its global epidemiology risk analysis and effective strategies for the management of exposures Proven methods of rabies prevention and control have been discussed in length along with the challenges and ways to overcome the constraints through intersectoral coordination The inclusion of 200 frequently asked questions is a unique feature of the book which may help not only the common people and pet lovers in clearing their doubts about rabies in man and animals also be equally instrumental in updating the knowledge and skills of the public health personnel veterinarians and other professionals Apt illustrations and simple language make the contents of the book easily comprehensible and a reading pleasure The Mammals of the Southern African Sub-region J. D. Skinner, Christian T. Chimimba, 2005-11-15 This third extensively revised edition of The Mammals of the Southern African Subregion contains detailed descriptions of all mammals that occur naturally on the African mainland south of the Cunene and Zambezi rivers together with all mammals indigenous to the subregion's coastal waters. The rapid accumulation of new information resulting from mammal research in southern Africa together with radical taxonomic changes across all levels of mammalian classification have necessitated this new edition which presents the best and latest data accurately in one comprehensive volume for use not only by scientists but also by an increasingly wide audience of general readers with an interest in the natural history of southern Africa. J. D. Skinner and C. T. Chimimba have revised, expanded and updated the text in a major project overseen by an editorial committee constituted by the Mammal Research Institute at the University of Pretoria. Specialists on each mammalian order have served as subeditors and a range of independent and internationally recognised authorities have reviewed every species description. In this edition all the distribution maps and many of the illustrations of mammal prints have been updated and redrawn, several new colour plates have been added and the whole design of this definitive reference work has been enhanced to ensure easy access to information.

BOOK JACKET Rabies in the Streets Deborah Nadal, 2020-04-13. Found in two thirds of the world, rabies is a devastating infectious disease with a 99.9 percent case fatality rate and no cure once clinical signs appear. Rabies in the Streets tells the compelling story of the relationship between people, street animals and rabies in India, where one third of human rabies deaths occur. Deborah Nadal argues that only a One Health approach of interspecies camaraderie can save people and animals from the horrors of rabies and almost certain death. Grounded in multispecies ethnography, this book leads the reader through the streets and slums of Delhi and Jaipur, where people and animals such as dogs, cows and macaques interact intimately and sometimes violently. Nadal explores the intricate web of factors that bring humans and animals into contact with one another within these urban spaces and create favorable pathways for the transmission of the rabies virus across species. This book shows how rabies is endemic in India for reasons that are as much social, cultural and political as they are biological, ranging from inadequate sanitation to religious customs, from vaccine shortages to reliance on traditional medicine. The continuous emergence and reemergence of infectious diseases despite technical medical progress is a growing concern of our times and clearly questions the way we think of animal and environmental health. This original account of rabies challenges conventional approaches of separation and extermination, arguing instead that a One Health approach is our best chance at fostering mutual survival in a world increasingly overpopulated by humans, animals and deadly pathogens.

Mad Dogs and Meerkats Karen Brown,2011-05-10 In Mad Dogs and Meerkats Karen Brown links the increase of rabies in Southern Africa to the HIV AIDS epidemic Her study shows that the most afflicted regions of South Africa have seen a dangerous rise in feral dog populations as people lack the education means or will to care for their pets or take them to inoculation centers Ineffective disease control which in part depends on management policies in neighboring states has exacerbated the problem The book traces the history of rabies in South Africa and neighboring states from 1800 to the present and shows how environmental and economic changes brought about by European colonialism and global trade have had long term effects Provided by publisher

Fencing for Conservation Michael J. Somers,Matthew Hayward,2011-11-23 The conflict between increasing human population and biodiversity conservation is one of the IUCN s key threatening processes Conservation planning has received a great deal of coverage and research as a way of conserving biodiversity yet while theoretically successful it has never been tested Simple lines on maps to illustrate conservation areas are unlikely to be successful in the light of human encroachment It may be that some form of overt display is necessary to ensure the protection of reserves This may be signage presence of guards rangers or physical fencing structures The need for some form of barrier goes beyond restricting human access The megafauna of Africa pose a genuine threat to human survival In southern Africa fences keep animals in and protect the abutting human population Elsewhere fencing is not considered important or viable Where poverty is rife it won't take much to tip the balance from beneficial conservation areas to troublesome repositories of crop raiders diseases and killers Conversely in New Zealand fences are used to keep animals out Introduced species have decimated New Zealand's endemic birds reptiles and invertebrates and several sites have been entirely encapsulated in mouse proof fencing to ensure their protection Australia faces the same problems as New Zealand however surrounds its national parks with cattle fences Foxes and cats are free to enter and leave at will resulting in rapid recolonisation following poisoning campaigns How long will these poison campaigns work before tolerance aversion or resistance evolves in the introduced predator populations Health News, 1924

The African Wild Dog Scott Creel, Nancy Marusha Creel, 2019-12-31 With only 5 000 surviving the African wild dog Lycaon pictus is one of the world's most endangered large carnivores and one of the most remarkable This comprehensive portrait of wild dogs incorporates previously scattered information with important new findings from a six year study in Tanzania's Selous Game Reserve Africa's largest protected area The book emphasizes ecology concentrating on why wild dogs fare poorly in protected areas that maintain healthy populations of lions hyenas or other top carnivores In addition to conservation issues it covers fascinating aspects of wild dog behavior and social evolution The Creels use demographic behavioral endocrine and genetic approaches to examine how and why nonbreeding pack mates help breeding pairs raise their litters They also present the largest data set ever collected on mammalian predator prey interactions and the evolution of cooperative hunting allowing them to account for wild dogs prowess as hunters By using a large sample size and sophisticated analytical tools the authors step well beyond previous research Their results include some surprises that will cause even specialists to rethink certain propositions such as the idea that wild dogs are unusually vulnerable to infectious disease Several findings apply broadly to the management of other protected areas Of clear appeal to ecologists studying predation and cooperation in any population this book collects and expands a cache of information useful to anyone studying conservation as well as to amateurs intrigued by the once maligned but extraordinary wild dog

Olney, G. Mace, A. Feistner, 2012-12-06 Past progress and future challenges R J Wheeler Royal Zoological Society of Scotland Edinburgh UK In the past two decades much has been achieved in the sphere of breeding endangered species and we should be pleased that our co operative efforts have already borne so much fruit However on balance and despite the best efforts of conservationists the position of wildlife in the wild places where they are best conserved has become worse often dramatically worse Before returning to the United Kingdom in 1972 I was in Uganda for 16 years most of which time was spent as Chief Warden of Murchison Falls National Park Our main problem was that an over population of large mammals was having a devastating impact on the habitat Devastation was being wrought on woodland areas by the arrival of large numbers of elephants into the sanctuary of the Park following changes in land use in the areas outside the Park These changes were in response to the requirements of an ever expanding human population Biodiversity Conservation and Habitat Management - Volume II Francesca Gherardi, Claudia Corti, Manuela Gualtieri, 2009-12-29 Biodiversity Conservation and Habitat Management is a component of
