Racial Healing Confronting The Fear Between Blacks And Whites:

Racial Healing Harlon L. Dalton, 1996-10-01 A New York Times Notable Book of the Year Going against conventional wisdom Dalton asserts that blacks and whites need not live estranged and offers concrete proposals for what individual blacks and whites must do to bring about racial healing When discussing race Dalton suggests that blacks and whites should simply put everything on the table Own up to the tension Acknowledge the risks When someone inevitably screws up rather than beat a hasty retreat we should seize the opportunity to deepen the dialogue The unflinching honesty of Dalton's views will spark debate and controversy His vision of a truly just multicultural America provides a thought provoking hopeful view to add to the diversity of debate over race

Racial Healing Harlon L. Dalton, 2008-06-26 An anecdotal study outlines the prospect of more open and harmonious relations between African Americans and whites that explains the importance of up front communication and risk taking Reprint

The Psychology of Black Boys and Adolescents Kirkland C. Vaughans, Warren Spielberg, 2014-06-30 Drawing on personal insights and research based knowledge this important work facilitates understanding of the psychological struggles of young African American males and offers ameliorative strategies Despite examples set by successful black men in all walks of life the truth remains that a disproportionate number of black boys and young men underperform at school suffer from PTSD and too often find themselves on a pathway to jail The two volume The Psychology of Black Boys and Adolescents marks the first attempt to catalog the many psychological influences that can stack the deck against black male children and to suggest interventions Bringing together an expansive collection of new and classic research from a wide variety of disciplines this set sheds light on the complex circumstances faced by young black men in the United States Contributions by authors Kirkland Vaughans and Warren Spielberg contain insights from the groundbreaking Brotherman study conducted over a ten year period to report on the lives and psychological challenges of over a hundred African American boys and their families Among the myriad issues studied in this set are the often negative expectations of society the influence of gangs and the impact of racism and poverty Of equal importance the work explores culturally specific ways to engage families youths communities and policymakers in the development of healthy safe educated boys who will become whole and successful adults

"I'm Not a Racist, But..." Lawrence Blum, 2015-08-01 Not all racial incidents are racist incidents Lawrence Blum says We need a more varied and nuanced moral vocabulary for talking about the arena of race We should not be faced with a choice of racism or nothing Use of the word racism is pervasive An article about the NAACP's criticism of television networks for casting too few minority actors in lead roles asks Is television a racist institution A white girl in Virginia says it is racist for her African American teacher to wear African attire Blum argues that a growing tendency to castigate as racism everything that goes wrong in the racial domain reduces the term's power to evoke moral outrage In I'm Not a Racist But Blum develops a historically grounded account of racism as the deeply morally charged notion it has become He addresses the question whether people of color can be racist defines types of racism and identifies debased and inappropriate usages of the term Though racial insensitivity racial anxiety racial ignorance and racial injustice are in his view not racism they are racial ills that should elicit moral concern Blum argues that race itself even when not serving distinct racial malfeasance is a morally destructive idea implying moral distance and unequal worth History and genetic science reveal both the avoidability and the falsity of the idea of race Blum argues that we can give up the idea of race but must recognize that racial groups historical and social experience has been shaped by having been treated as if they were races

Curating Church Jacob Daniel Myers, 2018-10-02 If we are willing to shift our approach to church we will better connect with increasingly heterogeneous cultures This shifting requires curation Church leaders must learn to be curators Churches in modernity were set up to facilitate a particular kind of experience with God Church was its own protected culture In the wake of postmodernity facilitated by new forms of digital communication we are entering a new epoch in the history of the church Curators manage the tasks of connection preservation and transformation in their care for cultural artifacts and communities When someone serves as a curator they make connections between different elements in the culture preserving the best of cultural traditions and promoting fresh ways of thinking and being in the world What might this work of curation mean for us In Curating Church readers learn how curation can reorient and sharpen the ways and work of the church Curation can inform how we connect with cultures beyond the church preserve what is best in the rich history of Christian thought and expression and nurture spaces where contemporary persons may be transformed by the gospel This book helps readers to understand with new richness the church and the world and it equips them to become active in making those connections as curators with and for others

Ralph Ellison and Kenneth Burke at the Roots of the Racial Divide Bryan Crable, 2012 Ralph Ellison and Kenneth Burke focuses on the little known but important friendship between two canonical American writers The story of this fifty year friendship however is more than literary biography Bryan Crable argues that the Burke Ellison relationship can be interpreted as a microcosm of the American racial divide Through examination of published writings and unpublished correspondence he reconstructs the dialogue between Burke and Ellison about race that shaped some of their most important works including Burke s A Rhetoric of Motives and Ellison s Invisible Man In addition the book connects this dialogue to changes in American discourse about race Crable shows that these two men were deeply connected intellectually and personally but the social division between white and black Americans produced hesitation embarrassment mystery and estrangement where Ellison and Burke might otherwise have found unity By using Ellison s nonfiction and Burke s rhetorical theory to articulate a new vocabulary of race the author concludes not with a simplistic healing of the divide but with a challenge to embrace the responsibility inherent to our social order

Interracial Justice Eric K. Yamamoto, 2000-12 The United States in the twenty first century will be a nation of so called minorities Shifts in the composition of the American populace necessitate a radical change in the ways we as a nation think about race relations identity and racial justice Once dominated by black white relations discussions of race are increasingly informed by an awareness of strife among nonwhite racial groups While white influence remains important in nonwhite racial conflict the time has come for acknowledgment of ways communities of color sometimes clash and their struggles to heal the resulting wounds and forge strong alliances Melding race history legal theory theology social psychology and anecdotes Eric K Yamamoto offers a fresh look at race and responsibility He tells tales of explosive conflicts and halting conciliatory efforts between African Americans and Korean and Vietnamese immigrant shop owners in Los Angeles and New Orleans He also paints a fascinating picture of South Africa s controversial Truth and Reconciliation Commission as well as a pathbreaking Asian American apology to Native Hawaiians for complicity in their oppression An incisive and original work by a highly respected scholar Interracial Justice greatly advances our understanding of conflict and healing through justice in multiracial America

Talking about Race Katherine Cramer Walsh, 2008-09-15 It is a perennial question how should Americans deal with racial and ethnic diversity More than 400 communities across the country have attempted to answer it by organizing discussions among diverse volunteers in an attempt to improve race relations In Talking about Race Katherine Cramer Walsh takes an eye opening look at this strategy to reveal the reasons behind the method and the effects it has in the cities and towns that undertake it With extensive observations of community dialogues interviews with the discussants and sophisticated analysis of national data Walsh shows that while meeting organizers usually aim to establish common ground participants tend to leave their discussions with a heightened awareness of differences in perspective and experience Drawing readers into these intense conversations between ordinary Americans working to deal with diversity and figure out the meaning of citizenship in our society she challenges many preconceptions about intergroup relations and organized public talk Finally disputing the conventional wisdom that unity is the only way forward Walsh prescribes a practical politics of difference that compels us to reassess the place of face to face discussion in civic life and the critical role of conflict in deliberative democracy Converging on Culture Delwin Brown, Sheila Greeve Davaney, Kathryn Tanner, 2001-10-04

Theologians are increasingly looking to cultural analysis and criticism rather than philosophy as a dialogue partner for cross disciplinary studies This book explores the importance of this shift by bringing together scholars from a variety of theological perspectives to analyze different contemporary theories of culture and cultural movements The essays here examine the theoretical relationship between theology and cultural studies and then discuss a series of controversial topics that cry out for theological reflection Trustbuilding Rob Corcoran, 2010-03-04 Trustbuilding using personal narrative and exhaustive reporting by Rob Corcoran chronicles how Hope in the Cities has moved what looked like an immovable barricade The job is not done but Hope in the Cities has provided a map for the future from the foreword by Governor Tim Kaine The national director of Initiatives of Change and founder of Hope in the Cities Rob Corcoran has been involved in promoting dialogue and conflict reconciliation among diverse and polarized racial ethnic and religious groups in an array of locales in Europe South Africa India and the United States for over thirty years Trustbuilding is part historical narrative and part handbook for a model of dialogue and community change that has been adopted both nationally and internationally At its center is the story of how Richmond Virginia a former slave market capital of the Confederacy and leading proponent of Massive Resistance has become a seedbed for inter racial dialogue and trustbuilding with national and international implications In 1993 this conservative southern city caught the attention of the nation with a public acknowledgment of its painful history and a call for an honest conversation on race reconciliation and responsibility City and county residents of all backgrounds launched an unprecedented and sustained effort to address the toxic issue of race Known as Hope in the Cities this endeavor is now in its second decade of work Trustbuilding should extend its important mission by carrying Richmond s story to communities everywhere
